REDS SURROUND ALLIED OUTPOST

Czech Out Of Step At Treaty Parley

18 Of 19 Delegations Endorse Jap Pact Text; Signing Due Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6 (AP)—The Soviet bloc fired a damp second round today for the only unharmonious noise in a full day of speech-making at the Japanese peace conference.

The Red dissent lacked the pyrotechnical brilliance of the denunciation yesterday by Russia's fiery Andrei Gromyko.

Of 19 delegations that had their say, only the Czechoslovak Dr. Gertrude Sekaninova opposed the "soft" treaty draft presented at Wednesday's opening session by the United States and Britain.

Some others recorded varying mild reservations, but primarily for the record, either stating flatly or indicating that they intended to sign.

Poland, the third Red country represented, remains to be heard late Friday, but the feeling grew among American delegates that the signing ceremony would take place Saturday on schedule.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH) went one step farther and said the separate security pact between the United States and Japan would be signed here Sunday or Monday.

Bridges, ranking minority member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, told a press conference he was here for the pact signing, which would maintain American forces in Japan indefinitely.

Dr. Sekaninova's speech of a little more than her allotted hour, followed the usual Communist line. She read it at the afternoon session, mostly in rather prosaic fashion, but finished with a dash of verse after the audience tried to applaud her down when her time ended.

The soft-spoken woman delegate compared poorly in both volume and invective with Gromyko, who tried in vain yesterday to disrupt the proceedings with a series of objections and proposals.

The other 18 speakers today all praised the treaty text with only a few minor discords.

France's foreign minister, Robert Schuman, went so far as to call for a mutual assistance treaty in the Pacific "for the defense of all the countires still concerned by the remainng threats."

This was the first time France had talked of a Pacific pact comparable to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Dr. Sekaninova in her attack criticized the occupation policies of Gen. MacArthur.

The Czech deputy foreign minister, well-groomed and rather attractive, professed to see a "dangerous analogy" between U. S. action in Japan and West Germany.

The factories of the Ruhr, she said, were smoking again to build arms, while Yokosuka in Japan was an American naval base.

The Japanese treaty, which Britain and U. S. have invited 50 other nations here to sign, was described by her as a "springboard to a new war."

Senators Favor $5 Billion More For Air Power

Young Hints Of New, Terrible Weapons

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (AP)—The United States has "new and terrible weapons of war," a senator declared today shortly after his committee voted an additional $5,000,000,000 for air power.

The big sum was added to the $56,000,000,000 previously approved by the House for the Army, Navy, Air Force and war-related activities.

Young's announcement came two days after President Truman said at San Francisco that this country has under construction weapons which are "fantastic in their operations."

Pledged to Secrecy

The senator said he and others on the Appropriations subcommittee had been told of the weapons but pledged to secrecy.

"They are not atomic," Young told a reporter. "They are something new and different. They are something even more startling than germ warfare.

"They are new and terrible weapons of war that are just beyond imagination. They certainly would be a deterrent to any possible foe using any possible new weapons they have."

Sen. Maybank (D-SC), another member of the subcommittee, was reluctant to discuss the new weapons but finally described them as "devastating new weapons, non-atomic weapons."

More Terrible Than A-Bomb

Young said they were more devastating than improved atomic bombs or atomic warheads.

Previously, Chairman O'Mahoney said the increase for air strength "will assure us that we will have an air power adequate to carry the (atom) bomb anywhere." His group, he said, fixed a floor of not less than 95 wings for the Air Force.

An AF wing varies. For fighter planes it is 75; for heavy bombers, 30.

DENVER, Sept. 6 (AP) — A back-to-the-job movement began today in the nation's vital copper-producing industry, strikebound since Aug. 27.

Dulles Expects Soviet Walkout

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6 (AP)—John Foster Dulles said tonight in a broadcast interview "I assume that Russia will walk out of the (Japanese peace treaty) conference.

The State Department adviser, architect of the treaty, added:

"I doubt that they will sign the treaty and they won't want to be spectators to the signing."

Word Battle Spins Crazily On In Korea

Joy's Denial Notes Rejected By Reds

TOKYO, Friday, Sept. 7 (AP) — The word battle of charges, denials — and denials of denials — spun crazily on today after Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway ruled out Kaesong as a site for resuming the Red-suspended Korean truce talks.

The continued arguments and an upsurge of fighting offered no optimism for an early renewal of the talks.

As broadcast from Peiping, the notes rejected as "absolutely unsatisfactory" three notes sent him by Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief allied negotiator, Sept. 4.

Reds Inject New Phase

Peiping also injected a new phase to the controversy. A broadcast charged that the United Nations command had failed to make public all of the frequent — often lengthy — Red statements.

Instead, the Red mouthpiece charged, the U. N. command "has either cut up or doctored our messages or cables instead of publishing them in full . . ."

At Ridgway's headquarters, an Allied spokesman patiently said that, insofar as he knew, all of the Red statements had been printed and passed on to the press.

Nam's two new notes had a now familiar ring.

No Reply To Ridgway Proposal

As the Reds have been doing over and over recently, the notes crackled with such phrases as "disregards the facts . . . no denials of facts can free your side from the serious responsibility . . . your side has as yet no intention whatever to deal with these serious incidents . . ."

Nam in one note told Joy "your military aircraft have persisted in unscrupulous and incessant penetrations over the Kaesong neutral zone."

No Red broadcasts as yet had touched on Ridgway's decision against retaining Kaesong as site of the talks.

Ridgway yesterday spurned Kaesong in his sternest note yet to the chief Communist negotiators. He said the city was not suitable because it is in Communist territory and declared that future talks must be held where they will not be interrupted.

Agreement Links Azores To West

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (AP) — The United States and Portugal signed a new agreement today linking the Azore Islands into the chain of North Atlantic defenses.

Portugal's foreign minister, Paulo Cumha, and U. S. Ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh put their signatures on the agreement in Lisbon. The accord was announced by the State Department here.

It gives the United States new rights to bases on the strategic islands, a State Department spokesman said. Eventually the facilities may be extended to other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization "for the purposes of the common defense and the preservation of peace and security". Both the United States and Portugal are members of the treaty organization.

The Azores lie about 2,000 miles east of New York and 800 miles off the Portugese coast. During the last war they provided a vital base for American military aircraft operating in the Atlantic.

Guatemala Strike Ends

GUATEMALA, Guatemala, Sept. 6 (AP) — Congressional and labor leaders announced settlement late today of the strike of some 5,000 government customs house workers which threatened to disrupt Guatemala's foreign trade.

Police Halt Landlubber's Cruise In Stolen Ferryboat

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—". . . And all he asked was a tall ship. . ."

So he took it.

It wasn't very tall, and actually it was a ferryboat, but 36-year-old Woodrow Facchinetti slipped aboard today, turned on the power and sailed away on the wide blue waters.

"I only did it for fun, fellows," he was quoted by police.

The 40-foot ferry, "The Sea Eagle," used to haul passengers between Carteret, N. J. and Staten Island, was snatched from its New Jersey pier while the crew was ashore.

And lone voyager Facchinetti led police a spray-flying chase.

Helicopters took to the air, police launches plowed through the waters, and baffled officers scanned the horizon with binoculars.

Finally, came radio word that the ferryboat was cruising briskly along a wide channel toward Perth Amboy, N. J.

A police launch roared in pursuit. As it approached, the ferryboat put on speed, veering toward the Jersey shore. Then, a fire broke out on the fleeing vessel's beams. Suddenly, it swirved, heading toward Staten Island.

Police pulled up alongside to confront an apologetic Facchinetti.

The fire, quickly put out, resulted from an overheated exhaust—and too much speed, police said.

Facchinetti was booked on charges of grand larceny — and transporting a stolen ship.

Errand Of Mercy

The Rev. Arthur J. Racette, a Catholic priest, is lowered by rope from the roof of the Wilson County courthouse at Wilson, N. C., to attempt to talk Daughn Arthur Cain, 39, an accused forger who hangs from the barred window, into surrendering to authorities. Cain hung from the window ledge for two hours yesterday until Father Racette and a jail matron inside the building talked him out of jumping 75 feet to the ground. (Story at bottom of page)

Wilson Declares Defense Buildup Causing "Pinch"

Output Near Mass Production Stage

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (AP) — Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson said today the nation's vast output of guns, tanks and planes is already causing shortages in civilian supplies.

"The pinch is here now," Wilson told a news conference.

With guarded optimism, Wilson said the multi-billion-dollar arms buildup is reaching the mass production stage, and he commented:

"It is what we expected — what we hoped for."

But the mobilization chief cautioned that the military program is bound to "add force to the inflationary pressures" in the months ahead and there are still serious problems to be overcome.

Wilson called the news conference primarily to make a progress report on the rearmament drive, but it took on extra overtones with the unexpected appearance of one of his chief lieutenants, Eric Johnston.

Reversing earlier denials, Johnston confirmed that he plans to quit as economic stabilization administrator "reasonably soon" after his stipulated nine-months tour of duty ends on Oct. 24.

There had been reports of behind-the-scenes conflict between Johnston and Wilson, stemming largely from Wilson's role as absolute boss of the entire defense production setup.

Johnston's appearance was evidently intended to quash any idea of strife.

Johnston said he expects to return to the presidency of the Motion Picture Association of America, whose directors agreed to give him a nine-month leave of absence last January so that he could accept President Truman's call to government duty.

Wilson's warning of a "pinch" in civilian supplies was the latest in a series of official forecasts that the huge military production program would make deep inroads in the nation's home-front economy late this year and next.

Socialite Is Married

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, St. Thomas, V. I., Sept. 6 (AP) — Ann Yvonne Baker, 18, a descendant of Detroit's Dodge automobile family, was married yesterday in a secret ceremony by a police judge to Kenneth Hugh Allison, Los Angeles, a St. Thomas radio announcer. The details came to light today.

Miss South Dakota Scores In Pageant

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 6 (AP) — Nineteen-year-old Marlene Margaret Rieb, Parkston, South Dakota, won the second preliminary swim suit contest in the Miss American pageant tonight.

The victory for the blonde, brown-eyed Miss South Dakota means coveted points toward the 1952 Miss American title which will be decided Saturday night.

Fifty-one American beauties are taking part in the weeklong preliminaries of the famous contest.

Murray To Quit As Head Of CIO

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (AP)—The CIO is looking for a president to succeed Philip Murray, who is quitting the post he has held since 1940.

Murray asked his lieutenants a week ago to find a successor at once. They replied there wasn't time, and Murray said he would continue until 1952 while they scan the field for a new president.

The CIO convenes in New York City Nov. 5, and presumably could select a new leader if Murray insisted on stepping out.

Red-haired Walter P. Reuther, 43-year-old president of the United Auto Workers, seems to have the inside track in the race for succession. Others mentioned are CIO Secretary-Treasurer James B. Carey who also heads the International Union of Electrical Workers, and Allan S. Haywood, director of organization.

Jacob Potofsky, who succeeded the late Sidney Hillman as president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, also has figured in the speculation about a successor to Murray.

Murray, who is 65, has been in ill health. In addition to an eye operation a year ago, he submitted to serious surgery last spring and was hospital-bound for two months.

"Ike's" Name Will Go On Oregon GOP Ballot

SALEM, Ore., Sept. 6 (AP)—State Rep. Mark Hatfield said today he has more than the required 1,000 signatures to put Gen. Dwight Eisenhower on next May's Republican presidential primary ballot in Oregon.

However, Hatfield said he wouldn't file his petitions until after the first of the year. He gave no reason for the delay.

Gen. Eisenhower's name already has been entered by petition in the Oregon Democratic presidential race.

Dictatorship In U. S. Feared By MacArthur

Charges 'Leaders' Lost War Victory

CLEVELAND, Sept. 6 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur asserted tonight there is a "steady drift toward totalitarian rule" in the United States, and said this tendency, if continued, could lead to a dictatorship.

His speech, latest in a series of major policy addresses, was devoted almost equally to domestic and foreign issues.

It contained four central points:

1. That "our leaders" have lost the military victory gained in World War II, through a too rapid disarmament and diplomatic blunders, and that they can no longer be trusted now.

2. That the United Nations, as an organization, is "inherently weak," and is threatened with failure.

U. S. May Lose Liberties

3. That the time may come when Japan may be "firmly established within the protective folds of our own cherished liberties, while we ourselves shall have lost them."

4. That since his return from the Orient, he has noted "our steady drift toward totalitarian rule with the suppression of those personal liberties which have formed the foundation stones to our political, economic and social advance to national greatness."

MacArthur, amplifying the last point, went on to say:

"If long countenanced by free men, it can but lead to those controls upon conviction and conscience which traditionally have formed stepping stones to dictatorial power."

The General appeared in Cleveland's public auditorium at the invitation of a citizens' committee.

Fruits Of Last War "Wasted"

He directed some of his sharpest criticism at the unnamed "leaders" who, he said, wasted the fruits of the last war. Military unpreparedness, the "political successes of the Kremlin," and diplomatic mistakes were the causes, MacArthur said.

"And now the disastrous cycle is completed as those same leaders who lost to the world the one great chance it has had for enduring universal peace, frantically endeavor, by arousing a frenzy of fear throughout the land, to gear anew our energies and resources, to rebuild our dissipated strength and to face again a future of total war."

He asked whether "those whose past judgments so grievously erred" could now be trusted. His answer was:

"There are those of us who from neither partisan affiliation nor with political purpose think not."

Four B Vitamins Found In Tobacco

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—There are four B vitamins in your smokes—whether cigarets, cigars or pipe.

Tobacco is one of the richest of all plants in the supply of one of these vitamins—nicotinic acid. This is not nicotine. It is the vitamin which cures pellagra.

These discoveries were reported to the American Chemical Society today in a symposium on the chemistry of tobacco.

You get some of these vitamins into your system when you inhale. And probably in lesser amounts when you merely take the smoke into your mouth. But don't make the mistake of thinking you can get your vitamins from smoking, because you need a lot more than you get that way.

James W. Gerard, Former U. S. Envoy To Germany, Dies

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Sept. 6 (AP)—James W. Gerard (above), 84 America's ambassador to Germany prior to the United States' entry into World War I, died today at his summer home here.

He had been ill for several days.

His assignment to the Germany of Kaiser Wilhelm was one of the most ticklish ever served by an American diplomat.

Gerard was a virtual prisoner of the Germans briefly after the U. S. entered the war but eventually was allowed to leave the country.

A corporation lawyer and a lifelong Democrat, Gerard also was the author of a number of books.

Britain Formally Breaks Off Oil Talks With Iran

Mossadegh Proposal Opposed By Deputies

LONDON, Sept. 6 (AP)—Britain slammed the door tonight on the prospect of renewing negotiations with Iran on the oil nationalization issue while Premier Mohammed Mossadegh remains in power.

Reacting sharply to Mossadegh's proposal to oust the 350 British technicians of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company from the shut-down refinery center of Abadan unless Britain agrees to resume talks, the Foreign Office said:

"The recent speech by the Persian (Iranian) prime minister in the Senate shows conclusively that no further negotiations with the present Persian government can produce any result. His majesty's government therefore now consider that the negotiations begun by the lord privy seal (Richard R. Stokes) are no longer in suspense, but broken off."

The statement came only a few hours after Mossadegh ran into parliamentary trouble in Tehran. Many deputies of the economically-pinched nation demonstrated their opposition to his proposal for a new utimatum to Britain by boycotting a session of the Majlis, the lower house, called to give him a vote of confidence. Only 62 of the 136 deputies showed up.

Lack of a quorum finally led Mossadegh to postpone the session until Sunday. The postponement came after he had tried vainly for two hours to round up absentees by telephone so business could proceed with the required 67 on hand.

Oil Tanks Explode

AVONMOUTH, Eng., Sept. 6 (AP)—Exploding giant oil tanks rocked this Western England port tonight. Flame and smoke cut off the waterfront storage yards and, within four hours, 16 of 30 tanks had let go with deafening roars.

Three ships berthed nearby were ordered to sea for safety.

One man was reported missing after the first blast.

Nervous Prisoner Coaxed From Courthouse Ledge

WILSON, N. C., Sept. 6 (AP) — A nervous prisoner bolted from his guards today, dashed to the roof of the Wilson County courthouse and hopped down on a ledge four feet wide. For two hours he paced that narrow walkway as jittery crowds gathered below. Finally a Catholic priest and a jail matron coaxed the man to safety. Through it all, his trial on charges of forgery went forward.

"Jump, jump," cried some in the throng 75 feet below.

But 39-year-old Daughn Arthur Cain had ignored the taunts, as he had the pleadings of others to climb to safety.

Cain had jerked from the grasp of officers who were preparing to take him from the courthouse's top floor down to the superior courtroom on the second floor for trial.

Judge Henry L. Stevens, a former national commander of the American Legion, ordered the trial to proceed even as jurors peered upward through windows at Cain pacing along the roof's parapet.

R. F. Mintz, Cain's lawyer, argued to the jury that his client was insane. He argued also that Cain was innocent of the forgery charges. As the attorney pressed his arguments and as the jurors watched expectantly, Cain occasionally sauntered past on the ledge that extends three-quarters around the building.

After pondering the case for one hour and 21 minutes, the jury found Cain guilty at mid-afternoon. Judge Stevens sentenced the defendant to seven to 10 years on each count, the sentences to run concurrently.

Major Enemy Offensive May Be In Making

U. S. Unit Fights Way Out Of Trap

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, Sept. 7 (AP) — Communist troops, blowing bugles and whistles, surrounded an Allied patrol base before dawn today northwest of Chorwon in Western Korea.

Contact also was broken with another assaulted Allied patrol base. But its members were believed to be withdrawing safely.

Today's encirclement by the Reds was the second in as many days in Western Korea—heightening speculation that a huge Communist offensive, utilizing thousands of freshly imported Caucasian Soviet puppet troops, might be brewing.

Chinese and North Korean Reds moved forward yesterday across the whole western half of Korea, attacking Allied outposts and patrols.

Their movement was not yet in the proportions of a general offensive. But it had all the earmarks of a prelude to one.

U. S. Unit Breaks Trap

Yesterday an American company fought its way out of a Red tank-forged trap 35 miles north of Seoul after an 18-hour battle.

At 5 a. m. today, two Red companies encircled an Allied patrol base northwest of Chorwon, western end of the old "iron triangle." The Reds struck under cover of darkness and a heavy smoke screen.

An Allied tank-infantry force began moving north in a rescue effort.

The second Allied patrol base also northwest of Chorwon was attacked after 120 rounds of Red artillery fire hit the position.

Allied communications with the patrol base went out about midnight. Earlier reports indicated these troops were pulling back. An Allied unit was sent to their aid.

Both actions lacked the intensity of Thursday's attack by a reinforced Red regiment—more than 3,000 men—supported by tanks, west of Yonchon.

This Red assault, plus a Communist counterattack on the eastern front, led an Allied officer to predict a new Communist offensive might be in the making.

Allied Planes Set Record

Allied planes set a new record Thursday in efforts to disrupt behind-the-lines movements of the Reds. The Far East Air Forces said today that its planes destroyed or damaged 857 Red vehicles yesterday. The previous high mark for a single day was 808, on Aug. 25.

The constant stream of Communist traffic to the front has been noted by fliers for several weeks. The columns have been hit when weather permitted.

A Navy summary today said nearly 3,000 Red troops were scattered in confusion Thursday in Eastern Korea by planes of Naval Task Force 77.

In the west, exhausted infantry men reached the bank of the Imjin River as darkness fell, ending a two-hour march through a hail of Chinese fire.

"We got all our men out — the living, the wounded and the dead," said the battalion commander who directed the escape, "and we left dead Chinese piled up like cordwood."

October Draft Call Is Boosted

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (AP) — The Marine Corps asked for more manpower today, so the Defense Department increased the October draft call from 41,000 to 44,600. The October call is the largest since March, when 80,000 men were requested, all for the Army.

The corps announced it wanted 8,600 new men next month, instead of the 5,000 it previously asked. The Army's needs remain at 36,000.

The November call was set at 33,700, with the Marines getting 4,700 of them. The others will go into the Army.

The Marine Corps turned to the draft in August for the first time since a brief period in World War II. Through November, its requests total 26,480 men. All told, Selective Service has asked 712,480 men since it resumed operations last September.

Hurricane Growing In Size And Power

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 6 (AP)—Winds exceeding 140 miles an hour developed today in hurricane "Easy" and the great tropical storm still was growing in size and power about 1,200 miles southeast of Florida.

"This is now a large and dangerous hurricane," said the Miami Weather Bureau. It still was too far at sea, though, to arouse alarm among residents of any land areas

Britain Promised American Steel

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (AP)—Britain's treasury chief, Hugh Gaitskell, obtained a qualified promise today of between two and three million tons of American steel in the next year.

A spokesman for Mibilization Director Charles E. Wilson reported that Wilson had agreed to earmark the steel for British use and make deliveries if the overall economic situation permits it.

At a conference with Wilson today, Gaitskell said the steel is badly needed in Britain's rearmament program. In exchange for it, Gaitskell offered to boost the British coal output sufficiently to provide substantial exports to Germany and thus expand German industrial production.

Gaitskell said Britain has run into serious financial difficulties because of rising import costs, but is not asking at this time for new direct American aid.

During his meeting with Wilson he discussed the world shortage of wool and tin and what contributions Britain and the United States can make to a sharing of the scarce materials.

Gob's Handbills Pan Navy Food; Faces Court-Martial

BAINBRIDGE, Md., Sept. 6 (AP)—A sailor who used handbills to broadcast his dislike of the food at the naval training center here may face a general court-martial.

But officials at Bainbridge hold their chow is as good as any in the Navy. They said today they are not considering action because the sailor doesn't like the grub, but because his advertisements may involve infraction of regulations.

Bruce S. Hopping, 30-year-old yeoman third class and assistant coach of the swimming team, who rides around the base in a 1951 Cadillac, said:

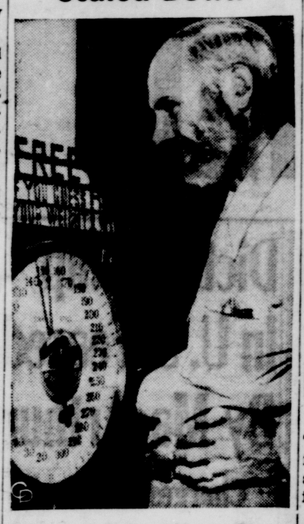

"The chow is good when it is brought to the base. When it is processed for meals they do something to it that makes it not fit to eat. Most of the plates are full when the men empty them in the garbage can. They fear to say anything openly about it."

Bainbridge spokesman said food at the recently reactivated center is all right. There may be some individual complaints, the spokesman said, but nothing widespread. He added the center would welcome any investigation of the chow.

Hopping, whose home is in Maplewood, N. J., said he had been put under base arrest and informed he would be recommended for a general court-martial.

The Bainbridge public relations officer said no formal recommendation had been made. The matter is "still under investigation" and the "extent of disciplinary action" is undetermined.

Woman Bobs Head From Sewer, Killed

ELKTON, Md., Sept. 6 (AP)—A 74-year-old woman, who was killed because she bobbed her head out of a storm sewer manhole at the wrong time, will be buried tomorrow.

Mrs. Ressie E. Barnes, lifelong resident of nearby Charlestown, was killed by a car Tuesday.

Dr. R. C. Dodson, Cecil County medical examiner, said Mrs. Barnes removed the manhole cover in the street in front of her home and decended to clean the storm sewer. He said she raised her head above the street level just as a car driven by Mrs. Alberta Hughey of Carpenter's Point came by. Dr. Dodson said the driver did not see the elderly woman.

Teacher Strikes End In Two Pa. Districts

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 6 (AP)—Teacher strikes ended today in two financially distressed school districts and a start was made toward ending a third one.

But similar walkouts of teachers to collect back pay continued in four other districts, all in Schuylkill County, in the heart of Eastern Pennsylvania's rich hard coal fields.

The strike of some 160 teachers developed in seven districts of Schuylkill and Northumberland Counties when the instructors refused to start classes for the fall term until they were paid overdue salaries from the last term. Their action extended summer vacations for some 2,100 pupils.

Truman Views Flood Wreckage In Kansas

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 6 (AP) — President Truman today viewed some of the wreckage of the nation's greatest single disaster — the July floods in Missouri and Kansas — as workmen won a new battle to prevent a second inundation in the Kansas River valley. The workmen got an assist from the river as previously forecast high crests failed to develop.

The President kept a close check on international developments in San Francisco and Korea and meanwhile even found time to talk politics with his backers.

Exemption Refused

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (AP)—The Senate refused today to exempt air mail from a proposed $400,000,000 a year boost in postal rates. The roll-call vote on an exemption amendment was 49 to 18.

A bill reported out by the Post Office Committee would raise the postage on ordinary letters from three cents to four cents and on postal cards from one cent to two cents. Neither the House or Senate has yet acted on the bill itself.

Ordinary air mail letters would cost eight cents to mail, instead of six cents, under the bill, while postage on air mail post cards would rise from four cents to five.

Danger Of Malaria Epidemic Reported

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (AP) — The Public Health Service warned today there is a danger of a malaria epidemic due to more than 800 cases reported among military personnel returning from Korea.

But the service cautioned against undue alarm and said a recurrence of malaria epidemics of 25 and 50 years ago can be avoided by prompt preventive action.

Problem Facing Saar Is Whether To Fight Or Work

By CARL HARTMAN

SAARBRUCKEN (AP)—The Saar is one West European area only 200 miles from the iron curtain with no army, no plan for an army and as yet no part in Western defense.

Supported by Britain and the U. S., France has detached the rich Saar coal basin from Germany and set it up as a partly independent country. A population bigger than Maine's, in a territory half the size of Delaware, has voted itself a complete national government. Under its constitution foreign affairs and defense are in the hands of France.

Prime Minister Johannes Hoffmann, as anti-Communist a Catholic as you will find, expects that sooner or later France will ask him for a contribution to rearmament.

"Of course, with all Europe mobilizing for defense," he told this reporter, "we can't hope to remain an exception."

Saarlanders who follow world affairs know that their next-door neighbors, the Luxembourgers, are already raising a division from a population only a third as great as theirs. But so far the military question has not come up in the Saar.

Chief of Police Guy Lackmann, a major in the French army of World War II, thinks his country could raise two divisions—about 35,000 men. This would be a considerable effort, especially in view of the fact that France expects to have only 10 divisions mobilized at the end of this year, from a population 40 times that of the Saar.

Many observers, however, object that the Saar's coal mines and steel mills could make a greater contribution to Western defense than its potential soldiers. Prime Minister Hoffmann is one of these. He is turning over in his mind the idea that drafting labor would be more effective.

An American who follows Saar affairs closely suggested that one division could be raised, but that the formation of a second would cut deeply into vital steel production. Women could not take men's places in the strenuous work of mines and mills.

Forming military units in the Saar also presents a ticklish political problem. Saarlanders are Germans. Many of them, including several generals, served in the German army in World War II. Their training and military loyalties are German. Officers who know them say they would serve best with German units, if only because they speak the same language.

But the Saar government is closely tied to France. It recently dissolved a political party on the well-grounded suspicion that its leaders wanted unity with Germany. The pro-French government would find its position seriously undercut by a pro-German army.

So Saar officials, and the French, are hoping for the formation of an integrated European army, in which most units would find themselves serving under higher officers of different nationalities. Then the Saar soldiers would be in the same position as everyone else.

More Red "Evidence"?

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6 (AP)—The Peiping radio asserted yesterday that Red forces have captured a number of American and South Korean soldiers who were "closely related" to the "murder" of Communist military policemen in Kaesong neutral zone.

Baseball Anniversary

The New York Yankees—once better known as the Highlanders—will celebrate the 50th birthday anniversary of the American League with appropriate ceremonies tomorrow. The senior circuit, the National League—senior at least in point of age—is this year marking its 75th anniversary.

But for internal dissension in the National League, and the opportunism of a minor league president and former baseball writer, the American League might have been much longer a-borning. In 1899, owners of National League clubs, beset with financial difficulties following the Spanish-American War, had abrogated the national agreement with its accompanying reserve clause. Some of them planned to syndicate the game as a "baseball trust," much as the theatre had been syndicated.

Byron Bancroft (Ban) Johnson, president of the strong Western Association, seized his opportunity when the National League proposed to reduce from 12 to eight teams. Johnson organized teams in the abandoned cities and formed the American League. In 1900 his roster included Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Cleveland, Kansas City, Detroit, Buffalo, Chicago, Minneapolis. By 1903 the new League had achieved the membership that was to last until the present day.

The early days of the rivalry between the two leagues was a period of unequaled raiding, most of the "thefts" being perpetrated by American League clubs. The St. Louis Nationals tried unsuccessfully to enjoin the Browns from buying away five players. St. Louis also lost the great pitcher, "Old Cy" Young, to the Boston Americans. Nap Lajoie jumped to the Philadelphia Athletics. Scores of other players switched leagues.

Fearful of losing even more players to the new league, owners of the National League teams, led by A. G. Spalding, reached an agreement with the American League in 1903. And that fall the two pennant winners, the Pittsburg (spelled without an "h" then) Nationals and the Boston Americans, met in the first real World Series. The upstart Boston team surprised the baseball world by winning the best-of-nine series by a 5-to-3 margin.

Baseball has changed since 1900, as have the times. The feet-first slide was then unknown. The bunt had been invented years previously by Tim Murnane of Boston, who helped to found the American League, but it had fallen into disuse.

Baseball players of the 1900's took their recreation in the form of cribbage, dominoes, and poker. One historian reports: "If the player wants to smoke, the cigars are his. If he wants to drink, there are drinks so long as he wants them."

Dressed in "loose shirts, low collars, thin lounging coats, and airy caps," baseball players were the envy of derbied, stiff-collared fans. Players' salaries were not purchased, but as late as 1911 the great Christy Matthewson was reported to be getting $6,000 a year; Rube Waddell a fabulous $8,000.

Fans traveled by train or by horse-trolley to the games. In 1900 there were only 8,000 passenger automobiles registered in the United States; less than 150 miles of surfaced rural roads. Not until 1903 was Barney Oldfield to set a new world's automobile speed record of 15 miles in 14½ minutes.

Going Places At 70

One of the most pressing problems that confronts the aging is what to do with the years after retirement from business or profession. Too few have avocations of such strong appeal as to become engrossed by them.

He or she is to be congratulated who has the foresight to plan and carry out a new form of active life. A highly stimulating instance of one in this category is Ziegler Sargent of New Haven, Conn., who at 70 will retire September 15 as vice president and treasurer of Sargent and Company, manufacturers of hardware. Mr Sargent will return to Yale, from which he was graduated in 1903, to work for a master of arts degree in American history.

Oldest man on the campus—Yale professors may retire at 65 and must step out at 68—Mr. Sargent will not be embarrassed on that account. He knows where he is going and is on his way. For 40 years he has been a student "on his own" of American history, which, eight years after he was graduated, the late William Lyon Phelps, then professor of literature, advised him to study.

For two years Mr. Sargent will be occupied in working for his degree, pedaling on his trusted bike from his home a mile away. Despite the great age gap, it is reasonable to feel he may be the center of a small group of thinkers. It is not a part of Mr. Sargent's plan to hang this diploma on the wall, say "that's that!" and then become a doddering introvert.

Ziegler Sargent, M.A., plans to write history—first, perhaps, that of the business his family has built up in the course of 120 years.

Design For Government

If any candidate for the presidency is looking for an acceptable platform he can find it ready-made for him in the letter General Douglas MacArthur has written to Shigeru Yoshida, premier of Japan. After telling Yoshida completion of the Japanese treaty opens a great new future for his country, MacArthur listed the principles which should guide the premier during his administration.

The foundation stones of good government, MacArthur declares, are public morality, restraint and frugality in the use of the public purse, avoidance of excessive centralization of political power, the preservation inviolate of the economic system based on free private enterprise, complete adherence to the Bill of Rights, fully functioning judicial processes, and adequate security against internal and external attack.

This advice is, of course, given to a Japan which is about to embark on a new era in its history. But it is no less applicable to the United States or any other country which cherishes its freedom and its institutions.

How To Keep Well

Minor Strokes Damage The Brain

Not all strokes (apoplexy) lead to paralysis, nor is the outcome always fatal. Many individuals have little strokes that are short in duration and often masquerade as another ailment. They may be difficult to diagnose unless some telltale evidence remains.

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez tells of a university president who had enjoyed a wonderful memory; to could recognize and name most of the men who had been in his classes in the last 15 years. Then one day he awakened with that fine memory gone. Something must have occurred in the brain to have caused this loss. This, according to Alvarez, was a little stroke. One of the best attorneys in California had been perfectly well until he went east to preside over a meeting. He collapsed for a moment on the platform and nearly fell out of his chair. The man next to him helped the attorney and, after taking a sip of water, he felt better. While in the diner on his way back from New York City he had another attack. This one was just as short but severe enough to make him fall out of his chair into the aisle. After these episodes the attorney continued to work but he was a changed man. His mental processes were slower and he began to age rapidly. He, too, was a victim of minor strokes.

Most sufferers tell a story of having a dizzy spell, perhaps with nausea and vomiting, followed by faulty memory, personality transformations, or lack of interest in life. Many are unable to work or find it hard to maintain balance. Carelessness in dress has been noted. Occasionally moral as well as mental deterioration ensues. Strokes are suspected when men of high reputation suddenly go beserk and are found in a distant city living indiscreetly. Others lose their business judgment and lend large sums without security or they purchase valueless property. Still others make commitments they never will be able to fulfill.

As a rule, when these individuals or their relatives are questioned, the physician finds that the change took place after an incident such as a giddy spell, severe headache, or momentary blackout. Others develop insomnia, palsy on one side of the face, difficulty in swallowing, tremor of one hand, or shaking of the head. There are incidence in which the only evidence is an abrupt drop of 40 to 50 pounds in one whose weight has remained steady for years.

Such disturbances are part of the aging process and come on so suddenly that little if anything can be done to prevent them. There is no reason why any person over 50 should live in fear that they might occur. Nor is treatment necessary unless the cause or precipitating factor can be found and eliminated. Nagging by the family will do no good, and no one is helped by being deprived of all his pleasures.

NAUSEA FROM PILLS

V. W. writes: I'm on a reducing diet and a few hours after taking my vitamin pills I feel like throwing up. Is this unusual?

REPLY

No. Some individuals find that vitamins "do not agree with them." Others burp after taking the capsules and complain of a disagreeable after-taste.

PLAY GUNS

C. S. writes: I have often wondered what you think about toy pistols and guns for children. Here in our town every child, even infants in their carriages, has a toy gun instead of rattles, dolls, or other toys. I don't feel right about this as later they will want a real gun. What do you think?

REPLY

In my opinion, it is human nature for youngsters to imitate adult activities. Thank goodness some of our boys know how to handle a gun in combat.

PERIODIC PAIN

F. H. writes: I have a duodenal ulcer. Pain is present for two or three days and then disappears for two or three weeks and the routine occurs all over again. Is it something I eat?

REPLY

Possibly, but ulcer pain has a tendency to recur in the pattern you describe. There is more to ulcer distress than diet. Equally important are the behavior of the nervous system, the manner of living, work, and tension. Many victime can eat anything when the going is smooth but when they are upset nothing agrees with them.

VEGETABLES AND KIDNEY INFECTION

D. J. writes: Can eating fresh vegetables cause pyelitis?

REPLY

No, because pyelitis is caused by infection. Pickles and other highly seasoned foods may irritate the kidneys but will not cause the disease. Furthermore, if it is necessary to keep the urine acid in the line of treatment, vegetables usually are removed from the diet temporarily.

Point Of No Return

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Lowering Iron Curtain Was A Human Disaster; "Ballooncasting" May Determine Peace Or War; Iron Curtain People Want National Security

(Ed. Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by several distinguished guest columnists, today's being written by Stefan Osusky, former Czech statesman and diplomat, now in exile).

WASHINGTON—The lowering of the iron curtain after the close of World War II was not only a national tragedy for those countries which thus found themselves segregated from the rest of the free world, but a human disaster which tore the heart out of man.

Soviet Russia did her devil's best to impress upon the nations of Central and Eastern Europe that they had been forsaken by the West. The iron curtain limited contacts to official representation, reliable party members and fellow travelers, making it possible for the Kremlin to demonstrate convincingly to these unfortunate peoples that they had been completely abandoned and forgotten by the West. There resulted a loss of sense of belonging to the West, which paralyzed the people's will to resist, and which was thus the Kremlin's most effective tool in the establishment of its dominion over the Central and Eastern European nations. Despairing of their future, they lost all will to stand fast by their own past.

First Stages Successful

So far, the crusade for freedom by "ballooncasting," championed by Drew Pearson, has brought the initial stages of its great liberating mission to successful completion. It has furnished the peoples of central and Eastern Europe with tangible proof not only that they have not been forgotten by the American people, but also that the walls of the Soviet satellite empire are not impregnable. It has done more. It has made the enslaved peoples find anew their lost sense of belonging and saved them from spiritual and moral decay.

The next phase of the balloon-casting will be of crucial importance. On it may depend peace or war. The peoples of Central and Eastern Europe are told by their Communist masters that they have a choice between saving the Communist regimes backed by Soviet Russia, or a return to the old order as it existed before 1939 and sponsored by the United States of America. There is no doubt that the mass of the peoples behind the iron curtain do not want a return either to the pre-1945 or the pre-1939 social and political order.

They do not want to go back either to the feudal social system as legated by the Middle Ages, or to the state-capitalist economic system shaped by Adolf Hitler. The masses do not want to be "liberated" in favor of either the dispossessed feudal classes, or Hitler's state capitalist classes, because their "social revolution" was made against both of these. The restoration of such a past is materially impossible. To allow the peoples behind the iron curtain even to believe that America wants a return to the past is to play directly into the hands of the Kremlin and to consolidate the Communist regimes in Europe.

Fight For Ideas

All great historical conflicts are fought under the label of ideas. President Woodrow Wilson understood this, and that is why he used the revolutionary idea of self-determination of nations to defeat the enemy in World War I. Today, because of the very recent, burning experience of Teutonic racial discrimination and Communist party bureaucratic, hierarchal discrimination, the nations behind the iron curtain will respond most readily to two new ideas: That of equality and that of federalism.

The first of these is featured in the Declaration of Independence and reads: That the people of America believe and profess that "all men are created equal." This assumption does not exist in Central and Eastern Europe. In the decades that preceded 1939, men were created noblemen, landlords and peasants, bourgeois and laborers. It was almost impossible to rise from one class to another. Even the high bourgeois who attained to nobility was astracized by his new class. Under the Communist regimes men are not treated as equals either. Distinctions are drawn between the Communist rulers, the bureaucrats, the party members and the non-Communists in a newly created hierarchy.

The idea that all men are created equally for liberty and the pursuit of happiness sprang from the idea that man is created in the image of God and from the idea of the brotherhood of men. Since these ideas permeate Western civilization, they constitute a reservoir of emotions to which we must appeal in order to arouse them.

The other great idea—that of federalism—is the only practical device by means of which the unfortunate nations of Central and Eastern Europe can gain national security, prosperity, freedom of cultural development.

The peoples behind the iron curtain do not long for social security tapped by the state; they do not want to be taken care of like children by their governments; they are cured of the idea of wanting to become inmates in a state sanatorium. The Nazi state capitalism of Hitler and the Communist state-capitalist system (under which the rulers, the leading members of the party and the bureaucrats are the new nobility, enjoying all the privileges of the system) convinced them that under totalitarian regimes the bureaucrats take care of themselves and not of the people. Therefore, the people behind the iron curtain long for a chance to do something for themselves. All they want is to set up conditions in which they can find national security, a chance to build up their families' well being and free cultural development for their children. In this, America can serve as the guiding example.

Can Be Divided

The American experiment proves conclusively that sovereignty can be divided. The federal system, dividing loyalty between 48 states and one common federal government, possesses the virtues best adapted to assure common natural defense, economic democracy and cultural development. Moreover the divided loyalty organized by the federal constitution is under modern economic concentration, the only effective safeguard against totalitarian dictatorship. Without a vast free market, mass production is impossible. Without mass production, there is no economic democracy, which requires cheap production of commodities and work for all to acquire the means to buy them. Economic democracy is the only weapon by means of which communism can be defeated. Moreover, the federal principle holds out the hope to the peoples of Central and Eastern Europe that, once liberated and organized, they will be safe from imperialist aggression either by Germany or Russia.

The American ideas of equality and federation are as revolutionary to the peoples behind the iron curtain as they were to the people of the 13 colonies. They are designed to give the enslaved peoples something worth while working for and hoping for. The knowledge that 16 million Americans pledged themselves to help these ideas take root and triumph is a guarantee to them that they are not vain promises. These American ideas, therefore, possess the dynamism capable of undermining the Soviet satellite empire, represent the only means of avoiding World War II, and prepare a safer and happier future for the Central and Eastern European counties.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — "Two wrongs don't make a right" is an old and accepted bit of ethics, and yet some of the leaders of the Democratic party are rejecting it nowadays as they try to substitute another idea. It is that to do wrong is defensible, politically at least, if the other party at some time or other has committed the same wrong.

Thus the recent outcry of the country against scandals in the Truman administration in the matter of wrong influence in getting RFC loans or in connection with defense contracts is greeted with the argument that the Republican administration in the '20's had a Teapot Dome scandal in which cabinet members were involved.

There is one important difference, however, in the attitude of President Truman, Democrat, today and that of President Coolidge, Republican, in 1923. When the Congress began uncovering some facts concerning the oil scandals, Mr. Coolidge didn't make a private inquiry and clear anybody of anything. He felt that to do so would be looked upon by the country as an ex-parte or one-sided proceeding. So he by-passed his own attorney general, even though that official was none other than Harlan F. Stone, later to become Chief Justice of the United States. Mr. Coolidge announced that he would appoint the two ablest lawyers he could get to investigate and prosecute the scandals. He selected former Senator Atlee Pomerene of Ohio, Democrat, and Owen J. Roberts, Republican, who later became an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Dealt With Vigorously

This bipartisan team of special assistants to the attorney general was given full authority, and did the prosecuting. They put a Republican member of the cabinet in jail and relentlessly prosecuted others involved in the scandals.

What was the effect politically?

Well, Mr. Coolidge was elected President of the United States in 1924 notwithstanding the scandal in his predecessor's regime and the worst blemish on Republican party rule that the country had seen in many a decade. The Teapot Dome scandals were not an important campaign issue in 1924 because a Republican President had dealt with the wrong-doing in a vigorous and unpartisan way.

The scandals of the Truman administration need not become a campaign issue, either. But to date the Democratic administration has seemed to be covering up the wrong-doers and, as long as that continues, it will be the Republicans who will benefit on the stump. It will do no good for the Democrats to argue that the Republicans were bad, too — for the Republicans can point proudly to a Republican President who cleaned his own house.

The tendency to offer as an excuse that the other fellow does wrong, too, is rather widespread today both inside and outside the government. For instance, when the cheating was exposed at West Point, many persons in public life immediately said the cadets shouldn't have been dismissed, for, after all, cheating in exams was done by lots of other students in lots of other colleges.

Charges Brushed Off

Wrongdoing of various kinds in government happens under all administrations. The degree of misconduct varies. Under the Democratic administration, there have been prosecutions of government employes who have embezzled funds. Representative May, Democrat, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, and Representative Parnell Thomas, Republican, chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, have been indicted and convicted, the former for frauds in connection with war contracts and the latter for compelling an employe to rebate a portion of the salary for office work. These are commendable parts of the record of prosecution but, somehow or other, when the breath of scandal touches high personages in the Democratic party, there hasn't been the same relentless attitude—in fact, the charges have been brushed off as just the "red herring" of political combat.

There's an old slogan in American politics. It transcends in its effectiveness "peace and prosperity" and all the other achievements of any administration. It is brief and to the point. It wins elections in federal, state and city campaigns. It is: "Turn the rascals out."

Unless the Truman administration convicts or absolutely clears, through impartial inquiry, those who have been charged with wrong-doing, that slogan will be heard often in the 1952 campaign.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Russia's Impudence

One point that needs always to be clear is that the Russians were neutral in our war with Japan, until after the Japanese were defeated. General Charles Willoughby, in his testimony before the McCarran Committee, has stated that better than I can:

"An interesting sidelight in the international field . . . is that the Japanese government was then on a neutrality basis with Russia, as you know, until five minutes to midnight. They came in in August of '45, after we had accomplished the Pacific war. The Japanese were very anxious, of course, not to upset this neutrality balance . . . "

The Russians have conducted a lying propaganda among their own people to the effect that they defeated Japan.. They seek to give the impression that the United States lost that war until the Russians came to the rescue. Actually, Japan was seeking an avenue to arrange an armistice before the Russians came in because the American navy and air force had cut off their supplies of rice and raw materials. Also there had already taken place the incident of the atom bomb at Hiroshima with indications that there might be more to come. The Japanese were desperate.

So the Japanese wanted peace and the Russians came in just in time to push their claims under the Yalta agreements. Yalta gave Manchuria to Russia in violation of the Cairo agreement which Roosevelt and Churchill signed with Chiang Kai-shek on November 26, 1943. Russia was, by Yalta, given a free hand in the east of Asia, but it is false to say that Russia aided us in the Far Eastern war. It is false because it did not happen.

Furthermore, it needs to be noted that the Russians never help any country. They have never been faithful to an ally. Even while we were allies in the European war and were providing lend-lease to them to the tune of $11,000,000,000, Soviet Russia maintained in this country a vast espionage organization which reached into the Treasury, the State Department and even the White House.

The testimony in the Hiss trials, in the Remington trial, in the Coplon trials, before the House Committee on Unamerican Activities and before the McCarran Committee establishes the nature, pattern, technique and personalities of these espionage organizations, beginning with the Harold Ware group, organized in 1934, and continuing to this very day.

The description of the Sorge espionage organization in Japan is an interesting point, because Russia and Japan were then at peace and in friendship and yet Russia maintained an espionage group in the very office of the prime minister, Prince Konoye, in the persons of Kinkazu Saionji, a member of one of the most distinguished families in Japan, and Hotsumi Ozaki, who had been associated with the Institute of Pacific Relations. Altogether the Sorge group consisted of about 15 spies.

As there was the Sorge group in Japan, so there were the Silvermaster, Perlo and Hiss groups in the United States and now we are discovering through the McCarran investigation, a cell, headed by Frederick Vanderbilt Field, in the Institute of Pacific Relations. Louis Budenz has definitely identified this as a recognized cell.

Americans find it hard to believe that any government with whom we are on friendly terms, whom we are actually aiding with the taxpayers' money, can be so perfidious. General Willoughby comments on this:

". . . Talking about (Agnes) Smedley, with due reference to her demise, you find her being pictured as a columnist at the time, and notably Mr. Harold Ickes, as an upright American woman, of unimpeachable reputation, veracity and political coloring, and then find her willing her ashes to Chu Teh, the commander-in-chief of the Chinese Communist Army, with whom we are now engaged in Korea, and having her ashes placed in a special shrine in Peking, under actual governmental ceremony of extreme value in the heartland of Asiatic communism."

Yet, we need to know that the Russians are like that because so many Americans, loving peace, accept their propaganda as fact. The Russians seek to sabotage our peace with Japan and employ their agents in the United States to accomplish their purposes. They are stirring all kinds of oppositional movements, even among violent anti-Communists, in the hope that somehow the Japanese treaty will fail; the Japanese will be disappointed; they will turn their backs upon the United States. Then Russia will step into the Japanese situation and will find no MacArthur there to stop her infamy.

NEW YORK — (INS) — From the horses' mouths:

In response to my question as to whether he would be a candidate in '52:

"Better ask me that again in January."

An admiral (who does not want his name used)—"Russia is more fed up with the Korean adventure than many of us suppose. It must have called for those peace talks to take stock.

"The Allied blockade of the China coast was better than Russia believed it would be. To keep those one thousand puppet planes operating over Korea the Russians have to supply their satellites with up to 45,000 tons of aviation fuel a month, plus anywhere from a fifth to a half a ton of consumable goods each month for every man in the field and they've got maybe half a million men there.

"All of it has to be moved over the Trans-Siberian Railroad, which can handle only about 20,000 tons a day—20,000 tons of all types, not just war materiel. If the thing breaks out again in dead earnest, we've got to bomb that railroad. It's their jugular.

". . . As for conditions inside China, they've not good just now. A year ago we figured that 90 per cent of the people were anti-Communist. Now the figure is closer to 50 per cent.

"That follows a pattern. There is always brave resistance to Communism at the beginning. Then the purges become so awful that the timid and semi-timid 'join' and the resistance seems to be eliminated. But, in time, resistance becomes organized and ways and means are found of getting around the conquerors. China will come back to our side, eventually . . . if we don't bomb the big population centers, and if we strengthen (economically) the nations on its fringe."

A general (whose five stars make him unquotable at the present time) —"If I had been in MacArthur's place in Korea I would have bombed hell out of those buildup bases on the other side of the Yalu, and never would have asked permission of Washington or the U. N."

Prof. Jay B. Nash (of N. Y. U., in "Going to College Handbook, Volume VI)—"Colleges and universities have lost sight of the aims of education. Players have been bought on the block as in the days of human slavery. Subterfuge and deceit have been practiced openly; if not by university officials, by and with their knowledge consent.

"When colleges and universities support athletics for the purposes for which they are intended; when gate receipts which provide for high-paid coaches and proselyting no longer exist; when the campus, and not Madison Square Garden, becomes the center of the scene, when leaders who have some honor become the directors, then and only then will we be able to place athletics again on a pedestal."

Harold Lavine (in the current Mercury)—"He'd (Eisenhower) prefer to run on the Republican ticket But if the Republicans won't name him and the Democrats offer to, he'll run as a Democrat. And there are even circumstances under which he'd be the candidate of a new third party."

Ray Brock (in a note from Ankara)—"Can't give you a headline, but Radio Free Europe is doing a smashing job out here. R F E hits with both fists in the most effective way: With keen satire, splendid accents (by escapees from behind the curtain), hard facts and knowledgeable, down-to-earth background which no poor devil behind the curtain can ignore.

"The Munich sender, with 136 KW and directional antenna, is doing a terrific job. Skouras or Zanuck can give you more facts. They're backing it."

A total of $411,000 was approved for the expansion of underground and aerial cable facilities in the Hyattsville, Capitol Heights, Wisconsin and Shepherd suburban areas.

Expenditures totaling $22,000 were approved for the installation of additional switchboard equipment in the Towson central office and provision of aerial cable relief in the Lock Raven Heights section.

More than $23,000 was authorized for additional switchboard positions and lines in the Aberdeen central office and more than $38,000 for the expansion of facilities serving two defense establishments.

economy of the tourist trade," he concluded.

Kauffman Backs Plan

David Kauffman, Cumberland attorney, and a proponent of the parkway plan, attacked Wachter's statements stating not all the motives underlying the opposition were being quoted.

Kauffman went on that Hagerstown and Frederick were badly afraid they would be by-passed by traffic because the parkway highway would not travel through their cities. The argument is "without grounds" Kauffman asserted, adding that an estimated 1,500 cars per day would go through Williamsport near Hagerstown on the parkway and that the increased flow of traffic on the parkway would naturally increase the number of cars also going to Hagerstown and Frederick.

Kauffman squelched the flood damage argument by stating Wachter was just defying the engineers' reports which said that although floods would interfere occasionally with the highway they would not make construction impracticable or improbable.

"It seems," he continued, "that for every solution we find for the proposed plan they find a difficulty." He concluded "to leave things at status quo is meaningless; it is nonsense."

Work Is Reviewed

At a dinner program last night concluding the second day's sessions, the commission heard Harold A. Kemp, chairman of the group, review improvements and accomplishments of the commission since its formation in 1941. He said the valuation of the work it has done vindicated the formation of the commission.

He cautioned, however, "we have made only a large dent in the pollution field."

Louis F. Bohraus, chairman of the river and harbor commission of the Washington Board of Trade termed the 10 years of the commission as a decade of progress. He favored a broader scope of activity and study.

Harold H. Leich, acting chairman of the commission's wild life and recreation committee, showed colored slides and described opportunities in the basin to the more than 100 guests who attended the dinner.

Today the commission will elect officers and executive committee men.

Railroad Official Pleased With Summer Smoke Record

Gratification with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's record on smoke abatement here during July and August was expressed here this week by F. A. Murphy, Eastern division road foreman of engines, at a Cumberland Terminal meeting.

He said atmospheric conditions during those months, when temperatures are high and humidity low, make it difficult to operate locomotives without some smoke violations.

Data released at the Terminal Meeting discloses that during August the B. and O. observations showed 35 partial violations and two bad violations among 296 inspections.

The percentage of partial violations for the month was 12 per cent, as opposed to a 15 per cent average for partials in June and July.

On the Western Maryland Railway, seven partial violations were noted out of 27 observations for an average of 26 per cent of partials.

The railroad had an average of 19 per cent partials in July, but only 12 per cent during June.

Increasing importance has been placed upon partial violations by railroad officials here.

The officials have agreed that such violations may be borderline cases . . . but are as likely to border on "bad" violations as on "clear stacks".

Bad violations are reported to the railroad immediately and in recent months weekly reports have been issued on partials so they may be investigated promptly.

Board Sustains Remonstrance On Liquor License

The Board of License Commissioners for Allegany County yesterday handed down an option which sustained the remonstrance against issuance of a liquor license to the Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company.

A hearing on the remonstrance was held Tuesday at the Court House and testimony taken from the remonstrants and license applicants.

The board's opinion pointed out the fire company has a Class B beer and wine license. The remonstrance against issuing a liquor license contained the signatures of 69 persons and at the hearing a petition was presented bearing the names of 100 persons who requested the license be granted.

The board found the Bowman's Addition Fire Hall is used as a public center and many social activities, which young people attend, are held in the fire hall. It is true that the bar is in a separate room from the dance floor, the board stated, and the board stressed the fact that every effort must be made to keep teen-agers from entering the bar room.

Considering the fact that this fire hall is a place for such public gatherings in this small community, that there is practically no police protection there, that many reliable citizens living very near the hall are opposed to the granting of a liquor license and the best interests of the community, at this time, will be promoted by refusing this application, the board has concluded to sustain the remonstrance to the application.

The opinion was signed by Walter C. Capper, chairman, and Stanley O. Hamilton and Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., board members.

TV Tower Is Damaged By Fire

An attempt was made Wednesday to burn the television tower of the Upper Potomac Television Company on top of Piedmont Hill.

When Homer Ferrell and Walter Croan went to the tower at 6 p. m. they discovered one of the wooden legs damaged. It is believed the fire had been started by piling about a truck load of lumber near the tower and setting it afire.

The company has been working for several months on the project, which consists of bringing television to the community by means of a cable from the tower.

The group will be addressed by Dr. Edmund J. Weatherby, secretary of the Maryland Artificial Breeders' Association.

Local Youth Escapes Injury In Car Mishap

A local youth escaped injury last Friday morning near Unionville when a car he was driving struck the rear of a tractor on Route 26, injuring two farm boys.

State Police Trooper H. P. O'Brien listed the driver as Jack Donald Lloyd, 19, 823 Virginia Avenue. He said Lloyd's car was "boxed" behind the tractor by oncoming traffic which prevented him from passing, and apparently was going too fast to stop.

He was charged with traveling at a speed greater than reasonable.

The injured boys were listed as Charles M. Garver, 16, and his 10-year-old brother, Larry Garver. Charles Garver was reported in satisfactory condition at Frederick Memorial Hospital with fractures of the right leg and right collarbone.

Larry Garver, who jumped from the tractor just before the impact, was discharged from the same hospital after being treated for lacerations and bruises.

B. And O. Freight Traffic Increases

Freight traffic rolled along the lines of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad during August at the highest level in 34 months. But indications are that increased operating costs and taxes made inroads into net operating income.

The road handled 294,397 carloads and exceeded by a small margin the exceptionally high figure of 294,077 for August last year.

The largest traffic gain last month was in coal, which carries a lower freight rate than the average commodity. Coal loadings totaled 92,190 against 88,973 a year earlier. All other freight was down to 202,207 cars from 205,104 last year.

Road Work Planned Near Bedford, Pa.

BEDFORD, Pa. — Bids will be received today by the Pennsylvania Highway Department for relocating and resurfacing Route 220 between Bedford Borough and a point near Bedford Springs Hotel.

Specifications for the U. S. 220 construction call for a bituminous surface at least 22 feet wide for 5261 feet (19 feet short of one mile) of new road, plus the resurfacing of 477 feet of existing roadway.

Child Injured In Auto Mishap

Four-year-old Richard Lee Aman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Aman, 213 Hay Street, was injured Wednesday night in a traffic accident near his home.

Police said the child was admitted to Memorial Hospital with a severe laceration of the right leg and bruises. A backing car operated by Charles G. Fisher, 27, of 205 Hay Street, struck him.

Officer Kenneth Morrissey, who investigated, said the vehicle was occupied by the boy's father when the mishap occurred at 7 o'clock. Both occupants of the car said they did not see him before he ran from the sidewalk to grab the right rear fender.

Crash Victims Improve

George F. Mitchell, 28, of Clearfield, Pa., and Frank E. Evenson, 19, Hillsboro, Ore., who were hurt Sunday in a three-car collision on Route 28, south of the Pattersons Creek Road intersection, continue to recuperate in Memorial Hospital. Mitchell sustained lacerations of the face and head and concussion. His companion had a hip injury.

Authorities reported John Rinehart, 18, this city, suffered a fractured arm Sunday night when the car in which he was riding crashed against a post one mile south of Ridgeley on Route 28. The driver was identified as Paul Jenkins, also of Cumberland.

Frank Johnston, 50, of Swanton, who sustained possible chest and internal injuries August 29 in a crash at the intersection of Swanton Road with the Deer-Park Kitzmiller highway, is recovering at Memorial.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT ONE TRICK, BUT TWO

PLAYERS with a pretty good understanding of squeeze plays usually think of those devices as a means of obtaining one more trick than could be scored by alternative play. Some of them also understand the so-called "progressive squeeze," whereby a particular opponent is obliged to discard on one suit some card from any of the three other suits. His discard then makes it possible for a lead of that suit to squeeze him between the remaining two suits. There are other, quite rare, lineups in which just one lead, after proper preparation, enables the squeezer to gain by a single play two tricks not otherwise available.

	♠ A K Q 7 ♥ K 9 6 5 ♦ J 7 5 3 ♣ 9
♠ J 10 8 3 ♥ 8 7 2 ♦ A Q 4 2 ♣ 8 7	N W E S	♠ 9 5 2 ♥ 3 ♦ 10 8 6 ♣ Q J 10 5 4 3
	♠ 6 4 ♥ A Q J 10 4 ♦ K 9 ♣ A K 6 2

Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
6 ♥

This was a case in which a pair equipped with the Blackwood convention should do as South did, cue-bid the clubs instead of asking for aces by using the 4-No Trumps. Knowing that North's cue-bid of spades in response showed that particular ace was much more useful than merely learning North had one ace.

South's smart bidding was wasted by bad play. The club 8 lead was won by the K, the heart A, Q and J scored, club 2 ruffed by the heart K, the spade A, K and Q used to discard the club 6, and the whole contract then staked on a lead toward the diamond K, in the hope that East held the A. West obviously won that and then beat the contract with the diamond Q.

Grand Slam was there for South by different play. Winning the club lead with the K, he could have built a squeeze, ruffing next the club 2 with the heart 9, leading the heart 5 to the A, ruffing the club 6 with the heart K, scoring the heart Q, J, 10 and 4, discarding so as to leave in dummy the four spades and diamond J while retaining two spades, two diamonds and the club A. Then the club A should have been led, the diamond being discarded from dummy. If either defender shed the diamond A, the K plus three spades would have scored. If neither discarded the diamond A, four spades would have won.

What combination play can help South make 6-No Trumps after West leads the diamond 9?

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Is childhood "life's happiest time"?

Answer: It is hard for a psychotherapist to answer this question fairly because people who had really happy childhoods do not seek his help. But the prevalence of neurosis suggests that while childhood should perhaps in theory be "life's happiest time," it is seldom so in practice — at least in the civilized world. If you look back longingly to childhood, it is probably because you are thinking of one aspect of it — freedom from care and responsibility — and conveniently forgetting others, like the sense of helplessness before the whims of growups.

Is "repression" always undesirable?

Answer: No. It is always potentially dangerous if too prolonged and severe, but in crises it may prove extremely useful. A writer in the V. F. W. Magazine describes the combat soldier's "Journey Beyond Fear," ending at the point where "you are so afraid that you can be afraid no more." What this really means is that fear has become so intolerable that it is repressed out of consciousness, enabling the soldier to act more courageously than would otherwise be possible. But this does not mean he is not inwardly afraid, and if the repression breaks down, "war neurosis" follows.

Does "proximity" make marriage harder?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Erich Lindemann, noted psychiatrist, in the Journal of Pastoral Care. The "enforced proximity" to another person which marriage entails results in "obligatory intimacy" that not only invades privacy but shatters illusions. You cannot go on idealizing someone whom you see in the most "unromantic" situations as you did during your engagement, but must work out a new, realistic partnership based on shared responsibility for home and children. However, if this is done, proximity will build a degree of oneness in which either partner will come to feel "lost" without the other.

The portable lunch can be tempting, easy on the figure and the complexion! Here are three menus.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

To figures and complexions, is there any greater menace than the toted lunch? Since sandwiches are the mainstay of the lunch box, their choice is definitely a beauty problem.

Teens whose schools are not equipped with cafeterias, working girls whose offices and factories are distant from eating places, and girls whose budgets need sparing all know that the enjoyment of a cheese-on-white cancels out as the calorie-count floats before the eyes.

Three Beauty Lunches

But, if a toter you be, there's no need either to go hungry until dinner or to pay the price in pounds. Not when there are so many clever ways of satisfying the inner and outer woman at the same time. Just cast your eye over the lunch box suggestions below:

No. 1: Hot vegetable soup in thermos; paper cup of cottage cheese mixed with cut-up fresh fruit; rye crisp; plain cookies; milk in pint container.

No. 2: Two hard-boiled eggs; whole tomato; celery stuffed with cheese; radishes and carrot sticks; graham crackers; apple sauce in paper cup; milk.

No. 3: Clear chicken soup; cold meat slices, cole slaw; whole wheat crackers; fresh whole fruit; milk.

Concoct similar luncheons on your own, keeping the same basic principles of a balanced diet in mind: Plenty of protein, vegetable, and fruit in each day's luncheon box. With just a little ingenuity, your planning will pay big dividends in increased lunch-time pleasure and in decreased figure measurements and skin troubles!

Note to the stay-at-home: These lunches will do the same for you!

Are Bootleggers Coming Back?

It is reported that, because of the high taxes on alcoholic beverages, bootleggers are coming back, taking advantage of the desire of many to drink more for less. This reminds me of the days of prohibition when we entered into the great experiment which many thought would cure all the country's evils, only to find it converted us from a nation that drank moderately, mostly beer, to a crowd which gulped liquor labelled whisky, gin and other fast-working doses.

John Wheeler

Ring Lardner, the writer, looked forward to the day when the new rules would become effective. He was a pretty fair drinker, and, like many of us, it grew out of conviviality. He said to me,

"It ought to be a good thing for both of us and our families and those of the rest of the crowd."

Harry Stevens, who had the catering concessions at race tracks and ball parks, advised Bud Fisher and me to buy a barrel of Scotch and one of rye before the Volstead Act became effective. Up to then, I had never thought of whisky in that sized containers, and asked,

"How much is there in a barrel and what does it cost?"

"About 45 gallons," he answered, "and it's $7 a gallon, the best stuff you can buy." How is that for a bargain?

I compromised by ordering a barrel of Scotch, thinking that would last me the rest of my natural life. I was living in Yonkers with my mother then, and the parcel was delivered in broad daylight about 3 o'clock in the afternoon on a clear

Then began the days when bootleggers wore diamonds, and connoisseurs drank anything. All sorts of joints with peek holes opened in the side streets of New York and other cities. It was the mark of a man-about-town to gain admittance for visiting firemen when you day. My mother looked the other way while the men put it in the cellar and tapped it, because she thought her reputation would be ruined with the neighbors. As it turned out later, we were like the gent who invented a better mouse trap, and the crowd beat a path to his door.

knocked on the door and whispered to the eye on the other side,

"Joe sent me." Generally it worked.

Heywood Broun, the bulky columnist, used to carry a flask with him loaded with what was supposed to be gin, but suspected of being a rough mixture. Before one of the big football games in Baltimore, there was a dinner attended by reporters, other experts, and old grads. To celebrate the occasion, several bottles graced the table and at the end not a few of the glasses contained some liquid as well as cigaret butts and ashes. Mr. Broun emptied the dregs into his pocket jug and showed up for the contest next day with it still on his hip. He offered me a drink, but, having witnessed the filling of it, I declined.

The more careful tipplers would have a bottle analyzed to be sure it wasn't wood alcohol, and there was the gag which went the rounds about the thrifty guy who gave a drink to his uncle to see what happened.

"It won't make much difference," he said. "He's blind anyway, and I want to see if it kills him." If too impure, the stuff was supposed to make the drinker sightless.

In my own case, I always had what I bought tested. We were robbed during this period, and the burglars, after picking up some jewelry belonging to my wife, found a bottle of Scotch, but left a note saying they were afraid of it and drank some milk instead. I hope they got undulant fever. It made me pretty indignant after spending all that money with a chemist.

There were Izzy and Moe, the agents who made spectacular raids in those days. The thing didn't work, and people mostly gave up beers and wines for the stronger stuff. This habit still persists. Oh, yes. The barrel of Scotch I bought lasted about four years, except for one bottle I am saving for an occasion—perhaps my funeral. The neighbors were very friendly, while we had it.

Government Of India Will Brave Illiterate Millions In Election

By SELIG S. HARRISON

NEW DELHI — (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru's government will try the biggest democratic experiment in history next January—and the fate of Nehru himself may hang in the balance when India's illiterate millions vote the first time in a nationwide general election.

Officials wrestling with election arrangements expect two thirds of 170,000,000 eligible voters to exercise their new franchise. Recent mock elections show it will take a lot of explaining to get self-government going in the face of centuries of empire.

To simplify matters for the six-to-one majority of Indians who cannot read or write, Election Commissioner Sukumar Sen has devised a plan that does away with marking ballots.

Instead, the voter simply drops a blank ballot into the ballot box of his choice. Each box will bear a special symbol—such as a hut or a tree—assigned to parties or candidates.

"We thought this would make it easy," Sen said unhappily. "I must confess that our trial elections have discouraged us."

In one Saurashtra village, Sen recalled, local officials spent one July day telling an interested crowd about the January elections and outlining the procedure. They asked all to cast ballots for practice in any one of ten boxes. Each box had a different symbol.

Filing dutifully into line, the villagers went one by one into the voting enclosure. Every one dropped his ballot paper into the box nearest the door.

Nearly 3,000,000 orthodox Hindu women who would not give their own names when the electoral rolls were compiled have been disenfranchised. Typical of millions more in a society ruled firmly by men, they would offer only such descriptions as 'wife of', 'daughter of', or 'sister of'.

Barriers of custom and ignorance have sent the Indian government hurrying into the production of motion pictures, radio programs, and reams of instructional pamphlets.

To avoid forgery, all ballots have been printed on paper with a secret design and serial numbers. Each voter will have his thumb marked with indelible ink. Special steel ballot boxes have been designed to insure against tampering.

State polling teams will set out over bumpy back roads on month-long tours, stopping in villages long enough to oversee local plans. Each area's voting day will be a local holiday.

All states must complete polling by Jan. 24. The earliest starting date will come in the South Indian state of Hyderabad where authorities plan to begin Dec. 10. Final national results will not be known before the middle of February.

Voters will choose a 496-member "House of the People," lower house of the central parliament, and 3,392 members of state legislatures. The state bodies will elect the central parliament's 204-man "Council of States," comparable to England's House of Lords.

Perhaps the greatest single snag threatening the election machinery is the complex problem of two-member constituencies which springs from India's system of reserved seats for backward classes and tribes.

Under the 20-month-old Indian constitution, 60,000,000 "untouchables" are assured blocs of seats in legislative bodies for the first ten years of independence. Primitive aboriginal tribes receive the same guarantee.

There are 86 two-member constituencies in the House of the People and 533 in state legislatures. In double constitutencies each voter receives two ballots which may be cast for any candidates desired.

Political observers have noted with a start that members of the tribal and "untouchable" communities could win double strength in constituencies where they form a majority by casting both votes for their fellows.

Fall Brings Call For Pot-Roasts

Pot-roasts are popular any time, but with the coming of fall, they're destined to take an even more important position in menus.

With this start of a new season it's a perfect time to bring out some variations of the old stand-bys. The pot-roast is cooked in the same manner, only the accompaniments are different.

The recommended method is as follows: Brown the meat slowly (dredge with seasoned flour first for a richer exterior), add ¼ to ½ cup of liquid, cover closely and cook slowly until the meat is tender. A dependable time table will give the approximate cooking time.

For accompaniment, onions may be cooked with the meat, then near the end of cooking, sliced carrots and sliced celery added. This may be served with cooked frozen peas. Or chopped celery, lima beans, or whole kernel corn may be cooked and served with the meat. Fruits too, such as apples, dried apricots and prunes, may be cooked right along with a pot-roast.

Veal Chop—Potato Casserole

4 veal loin or rib chops, cut ¾ inch thick; 2 tablespoons lard or drippings; 4 potatoes, peeled and sliced; salt; pepper; ¼ cup enriched flour; 2 cups milk; ¼ cup grated cheese.

Brown chops on both sides in lard or drippings. Season. Grease a casserole dish. Place half of the sliced potatoes in casserole. Season with salt and pepper, sprinkle with flour. Add remaining potatoes and flour. Pour milk over all. Place browned chops on top of potatoes. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Cover and cook in a slow oven (300° F.) about 1½ hours or until tender. 4 servings.

Club Refreshments

What if the treasurer's report is depressing, or the speaker is dull? Extra special refreshments will make the club meeting a success. But it won't be a complete success unless the hostess enjoys herself too. She should keep in mind that the proper place to enjoy her party is not in the kitchen. A careful choice of refreshments will pay off in more enjoyment for everybody. Here are two desserts that take no last-minute fussing, and are bound to receive the unanimous approval of the club members:

Banana Whipped Cream Pie

4 cups corn flakes
¼ cup sugar
⅓ cup melted butter or margarine
1 cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
18 marshmallows, sliced
2 or 3 fully ripe bananas

Crush corn flakes into fine crumbs; combine with sugar and melted butter. Mix thoroughly. Press evenly around sides and bottom of 9-inch pie pan. Chill.

Whip cream until stiff; beat in sugar and vanilla. Fold in marshmallows and sliced bananas. Spread in crumb crust. May be chilled or served at once.

Yield: 1 9-inch pie.

Crusted Almond Cream

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
2 cups milk
2 eggs, separated
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon almond flavoring
1½ cups oven-popped rice cereal
¼ cup chopped nutmeats
1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine

Soak gelatin in one-fourth cup milk until softened. Heat remainder of milk in top of double boiler. Beat egg yolks, add salt and one-half of sugar. Slowly stir hot milk into beaten yolks. Return to double boiler. Cook over hot water, stirring until mixture coats spoon. Stir in softened gelatin. Cool, add flavorings. Chill until mixture begins to congeal. Beat egg whites until frothy, add remaining sugar and continue beating until stiff. Fold into custard mixture. Pour into shallow pan rinsed in cold water. Crush rice cereal; mix with nutmeats and butter and brown in oven. Sprinkle over pudding. Chill until firm, about two hours. Cut in squares and serve.

Yield: 9 servings (8 x 8-inch pan).

Chipped Beef on a Bun

Use toasted enriched hamburger buns to make excellent open-face sandwiches as well as to shelter burgers. Here these good buns are topped with creamed chipped beef and kernel corn.

When you buy hamburger buns at your baker's for summer picnics, get an extra supply of these thrifty breads to make tempting sandwiches for the family lunch.

Big brown sandwich buns are delicious toasted and topped with creamed fillings of various types. Spoon creamed chipped beef combined with kernel corn liberally over the buns for a flavorful and quick-to-fix main dish. Another good topping is creamed tuna with green peas, or a golden cheese sauce garnished with bacon. This type of menu is easy to complete with a cooked fresh vegetable or salad, milk, and cookies for dessert.

Hamburger buns are popular with children and add interesting variety to the day's servings of enriched breads. These are important, you know, for their contribution of protein, essential B-vitamins, food iron, and food energy.

When you bake yeast rolls, plan to shape part of the dough into hamburger buns for sandwich meals.

CHIPPED BEEF TOASTWICHES

2 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons enriched flour
1 cup milk
½ cup cooked kernel corn
½ cup chipped beef
Sandwich buns, split and toasted

Melt shortening in top of double boiler. Add flour and gradually pour in milk. Add kernel corn. Stir constantly until thickened. Rinse chipped beef with boiling water and add to cream sauce. Cook over double boiler 10 minutes. Serve hot over split, toasted sandwich buns.

Makes 4 servings.

Rump Pot-Roast—Potato Pancakes

3 to 4-pound rump pot-roast
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
Salt
Pepper
1 onion, sliced
¼ cup water
Potato Pancakes

Brown meat on all sides in lard or drippings. Season. Add onion and water. Cover closely and simmer 2½ to 3 hours or until tender. Add small amounts of water from time to time if needed. Serve with Potato Pancakes. 6 to 8 servings.

Potato Pancakes

2 cups grated raw potatoes
2 eggs
½ teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon flour
¼ cup lard

Combine all ingredients except the lard. Drop by spoonfuls into hot lard. When brown turn with pancake turner. Continue cooking until brown on other side. (This mixture may be baked in 1 large pancake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 15 minutes for each side or until crisp and brown.) 4 to 6 servings.

Entertain Family With Corn Roast

Now, while fresh golden corn-on-the-cob is at its peak, have a corn roast and campfire party. Ideal Saturday night supper party for the whole family, it's easy to entertain a big crowd at this kind of outdoor get-together.

Forewarn guests to come dressed in blue jeans or casual clothes, and plan a meal to satisfy appetites sharpened by the first snap of fall in the evening air. Please youngsters and adults alike with a menu of grilled frankfurters, crisp green salad, rolls, relishes to serve with the corn, plus milk for the youngsters and zesty beer for the grown-ups.

Set up a table near the outdoor grill or fireplace with paper plates, napkins, mustard, big salt and pepper shakers, relishes and glasses—no forks, knives or spoons needed for this supper! Add a note of hearty hospitality by pouring both the milk and beer at the table from big pitchers and dress up the occasion by serving the beverages in husky mugs or glasses. When supper is ready, let the men "cooks" shuck and serve the hot corn and franks and have someone standing by to brush the ears of corn with melted butter. The rest of the food may be served, but it's usually more fun for everyone to help themselves.

Roasted Corn and Frankfurters

Remove silk from corn, but leave husks on. Soak corn in bucket of cold water 1 hour. Shake off excess water. Have coals hot and glowing in grill or fireplace; arrange corn on top. Cook 10 to 15 minutes, depending on size of corn, turning occasionally. While corn is being shucked, grill frankfurters. Serve with rolls, salad, cold beer and milk for a family cook-out supper party.

Q. What are these variety meats?
A. Kidneys. Left to right; veal, beef, lamb, pork.
Q. How are they prepared?
A. They are washed, the outer membrane removed, then split through the center to remove the fat and tubes. Following this procedure, beef and pork kidneys are braised or cooked in liquid as in kidney stew or steak and kidney pie. Veal and lamb kidneys may be prepared by either of these previous mentioned methods or may be broiled or panbroiled.

Rice Meal In A Dish

With fresh tomato time just around the corner we cannot pass the opportunity of combining this wonderful fruit with rice! For rice is delicious served in many tomato combinations. Indeed, so many rice dishes call for tomatoes that it is almost impossible to choose the best!

Whole tomatoes baked in a bed of fluffy white rice seasoned with sharp cheese, onions and green peppers . . . and topped with sour cream makes a meal your family won't forget. A dish we call rice meal in a dish . . . and it's just that. If you prepare the ingredients before you leave the house in the morning, it will take little time to bake it when you come home from the party or swim . . . and you are assured of a tasty, sturdy piece de resistance.

Rice Meal In A Dish, it will even go on a picnic with careful handling and packing! It may be baked in one large casserole or in individual baking dishes . . . each small dish containing one tomato and lots of the delicious rice mixture.

Ingredients

6 good sized fresh ripe tomatoes (peeled, stemmed and filled with cooked rice)
4 medium sized onions, sliced thin
1 green peper, minced
1½ cups freshly cooked rice, slightly salted
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1½ cups grated cheese
2 teaspoons brown sugar
Salt and pepper
1 cup sour cream
2 eggs, well beaten
Paprika (a little)

Preparing the fluffy white rice: Put 1 cup of uncooked rice, 2 cups of cold water and 1 teaspoon salt in a two quart sauce pan and cover with a tight fitting lid. Bring to a vigorous boil. Then reduce the heat as low as possible and steam for 14 minutes or until all the water is absorbed, leaving the separate rice grains with their full nutritional value. This makes very firm rice grains. (If you prefer more tender rice grains, add ⅓ cup more water and increase the slow cooking time 4 or 5 minutes). Remove the lid, permit the rice to steam dry to the desired consistency and the grains will be separate and fluffy. Never stir rice; lift gently with a fork. Keep left over rice in a covered bowl in the refrigerator. Makes approximately 3 cups fluffy rice.

Method: Cook onions and green pepper sowly in butter or margarine about 5 minutes or until soft. Butter a deep casserole. Place tomatoes on bottom. Add a layer of cooked rice, onions, then the cheese, around the tomatoes, dash with salt and pepper, sugar and paprika. Repeat until rice mixture and seasonings are in the dish, reserving ½ cup of rice and ¼ cup cheese for top of dish. Whip the sour cream, add eggs, pour over top. Cover and bake at 350°F. 30 to 35 minutes. Remove cover and leave in oven until top is well browned. Note: If you have no sour cream available you can make your own sour cream by combining sweet cream with either 1 teaspoon vinegar or 2 teaspoons lemon juice. Serves 4 generously.

Summer's Big Dividend—Apples

SUMMER'S big dividend is here—summer apples. Good in pies, desserts and main dishes, they are also excellent in salads. Apple Chicken Salad is hearty, pretty, nutritious and easy to prepare.

Summer Apples Excellent In Salads

Isn't it pretty wonderful of summer to bring us summer apples just when we need them most? Here we are at the peak of the summer and a little peaked when it comes to preparing meals three times a day. But when summer apples come into the market, youth comes back with them, and visions of green apple pie and old fashioned applesauce and once again the kitchen is the place to be.

The apple kitchen is really the place to be at a time like this to peer over the shoulder of the cook who is concentrating on a new recipe for a summer apple salad — apple chicken salad it is called. We think it's a perfect salad for a supper main dish, a summer luncheon party or a porch dinner. Chicken, celery, walnuts, apples combine with mayonnaise on a bed of salad greens. Hearty, but pretty; nutritious, but appealing; easy-to-make, but impressive.

Summer apples are excellent in salads of any kind, and they are good cooking apples, too. You will recognize them in the market by their color which is green or yellowish; their size, somewhat under the later Autumn apple. Summer apples have a flavor that is all their own. Don't miss it!

Apple Chicken Salad
(makes 6 to 8 servings)

3 cups cooked or canned diced chicken; 1 cup diced celery; ½ cup broken walnuts; Mayonnaise; 3 apples.

Combine chicken, celery and walnuts with enough mayonnaise to hold ingredients together.

Core apples; slice thin; add to chicken mixture. Serve on salad greens.

Rosy Pear-Pine Preserves

7 medium-sized or 3 lbs. California Bartlett pears
1 tablespoon finely grated orange rind
6 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup drained, diced pineapple
5½ cups sugar
⅓ cup halved Maraschino Cherries (4 oz. jar)
Red food coloring

Wash, peel, halve, core pears; cut each into 4ths lengthwise, then cut into ½ inch wedges crosswise (6¼ cups). Combine all ingredients except cherries and food coloring in preserving kettle; blend together. Bring to a rolling boil; boil 20 minutes or until two thick drops run together off a clean metal spoon (222 F.). Add cherries and 6 drops of red food coloring during last 5 minutes of cooking time. Remove from heat; skim. Pour into hot sterilized jars; seal at once. Makes 3 pints.

A Purple Plum Pie To Eat Now Or Freeze For Winter

Washington Italian prunes are on the market in prime condition. This fruit is one for which you will find many uses in your everyday meal planning, both now while they can be served fresh and in the winter time when they may be served canned or frozen.

Every pie lover will enjoy fresh Italian Prune pie. If you have a food freezer this is an excellent pie to freeze. A summer-fresh fruit pie in mid-winter is a treat for everyone.

The pie may be frozen either baked or unbaked. If the baked pie is preferred it is prepared for table use, then cooled and wrapped in moisture-vapor-proof freezer paper. If you prefer to freeze the unbaked pie, prepare it as though it were to be baked but do not vent the crust. Wrap in moisture-vapor-proof paper and freeze. To simplify the wrapping of the unbaked pie, it may be placed in the food freezer until the juices are set and the pie partially frozen.

Purple Plum Pie

3 cups Washington Italian Prunes; ¾ cup sugar; 3 tablespoons flour; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; 1 tablespoon lemon juice; 1 tablespoon butter; pastry for double crust pie.

Wash, halve and pit the prunes. Place in pastry lined pie plate. Combine sugar, flour and spice and sprinkle over the fruit. Sprinkle with lemon juice and dot with butter. Adjust top crust. Seal edges and vent top. Bake at 425 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes, or until nicely browned. If the pie is to be frozen follow the freezing instructions.

A special press devised by a U. S. aircraft firm cuts production time on single operation for wing leading edges from eight hours to two minutes.

New Interest For Vegetable

Summer's bountiful crop of flavorful vegetables is now making its way into your kitchen and these garden-fresh flavors deserve the best of care. Flattering butter sauces, unusual tasty seasonings and new combinations will bring out the best of vegetable flavors.

Delicately flavored butter is the basic ingredient for many vegetable sauces. Just serve vegetables topped with hot melted butter or for variety add a bit of mustard, horseradish, lemon juice, chopped chives, pimento or green pepper. Use these same ingredients in cream sauce to add variety to creamed vegetables. Grated cheese, chopped pickle and sliced olives are also good additions to cream sauce.

It's "corn on the cob" time across the land right now. These steaming golden ears swimming with melted butter will undoubtedly appear on your table many times during the next few weeks. Pimento-Chive Butter and corn make an interesting flavor combination. Cut the corn into short pieces and dunk the pieces in individual pitchers or dishes of the butter. These corn dunks are delicious and easy to handle, too.

Corn Dunks with Pimento-Chive Butter

⅓ cup melted butter
2 tablespoons minced chives
2 tablespoons minced pimento
¼ teaspoon paprika
6 ears corn

Combine butter, chives, pimento and paprika and serve hot with hot corn on the cob, which has been cut into 1½ to 2 inch dunking size pieces. Serves 4 to 6.

New Ways Serving Vegetables

Breaded Brussel Sprouts

4 cups brussel sprouts
1 egg, beaten
Fat
¾ cup dry bread crumbs
¼ cup grated cheese

Dip brussel sprouts into egg, roll in bread crumbs and fry in hot deep fat (380°) until browned. Sprinkle with cheese. Serves 8.

Carrots And Onions In Cream

3 bunches carrots
2 medium onions
3 tablespoons butter
¾ cup cream (preferably heavy)
½ teaspoon salt
Dash cayenne pepper
2 tablespoons brown sugar

Scrape carrots and shred paper thin lengthwise. Peel and shred onions. Melt butter over low flame. Add carrots and onions. Simmer slowly without burning. Add a tablespoon cream at a time, whenever the kettle seems to dry. Season.

It will take all of one hour to cook carrots this way but when ready they have the appearance of light noodles and the very quintessence of carrot aroma. Serves 8.

Cauliflower Surprise

2 medium heads cauliflower
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
¼ teaspoon salt
1 pound fresh mushrooms
1 cup broken walnut meats
½ cup cheese, grated

Boil cauliflower in fast boiling, salted water with cover on until tender, then cut into small chunks and place in baking dish. Make white sauce as follows:

Melt butter in top of double boiler, sift flour into melted butter and stir until thoroughly smooth. Then add milk and salt. Stir until sauce thickens.

Cut mushroom stems into slices and caps into pieces. Put mushrooms and nuts into white sauce. Pour over cauliflower in baking dish. Sprinkle cheese over top. Bake at 450° F until cheese is brown. Serves 8.

Marmalade, made out of peaches or ripe tomatoes now, will come in handy during winter months. Be sure to store the marmalade in a cool, dry, dark place.

If you want to make canned corned beef hash look festive turn it into a ring mold and bake it until it's thoroughly hot.

Puffy Omelet

Here is a recipe for a puffy omelet that will come to the table as light as an angel's touch and as high as a top hat. The addition of two tablespoons of flour to the yolks before beating turns the trick.

Feature this puffy omelet for brunch, lunch or supper filled with chicken livers, which have been sauteed to a turn in delicious margarine, and garnished with red-ripe tomato wedges. Serve toasted halves of English muffins spread while piping hot with margarine. For such an occasion as this you will want to place a bowl of preserves on the table. Strawberry preserve full of plump fruit is especially delightful.

For the fruit course, top golden-yellow wedges of cantaloupe at the last minute with spoonfuls of frozen tangerine juice concentrate just as it comes from the open can. The beverage, coffee brewed to perfection.

Puffy Omelet

4 eggs; 2 tablespoons flour; ½ teaspoon salt; 1 cup milk; 3 tablespoons fortified margarine; ½ pound chicken livers, minced and sauteed.

Separate eggs, beat yolks until light, whites until stiff. Sift the flour over the yolks and add salt. Fold in. Add milk and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Place margarine in a large heavy frying pan and melt margarine over low heat. Pour in omelet mixture and cook over moderate heat until mixture begins to set. Transfer to a 400 degree oven to complete cooking, about 5 minutes. Crease the omelet with a knife or spatula where you want it to fold. Spread chicken livers in center of omelet. Tip the pan and push the omelet gently with a spatula until it folds over. Place on a hot platter. Garnish and serve at once. Yield: 4 servings.

Fishing For Dinner Ideas?

GIVE a man a fish pole and he's happy And give most any man a good fish dinner and he'll react the same way Fresh fish are so plentiful and so economical, that you should let them help in your food budget and get acquainted with the many varieties now available not only near ocean and lakes but in inland towns, thanks to modern refrigeration.

Secret of success in cooking fish is not to overcook it, and to season it properly Fish is bland, and takes well to simple sauces, such as the two Tabasco sauces for which recipes are given below.

A high quality protein food, there are some 160 varieties of fish sold in the United States. Here are pictured, reading top to bottom, three salt water varieties, sea bass, mackerel and porgie, and three fresh water species, white fish, yellow pike, and brook trout.

An easy and appetizing way of preparing fish for the table is by simple broiling. To serve four, plan on 1 pound of fillets or steaks or four small fish, and 3 to 4 tablespoons of fat. Preheat broiler. Cut fillets or steaks into serving pieces. Grease the broiler rack lightly. Place fish on rack, skin side up; brush with melted fat. Place rack 2 or 3 inches from heat. Broil fish 5 to 8 minutes or until brown, and serve with one of these tangy sauces

Tabasco Butter Sauce

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1½ teaspoons lime juice
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
1 tablespoon minced parsley

Melt butter in saucepan. Add lime juice and Tabasco; heat. Add parsley. YIELD: Approximately ⅓ cup.

Tabasco Fish Sauce

1 cup mayonnaise
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
½ cup chili sauce
1 teaspoon Tabasco
2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
2 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives
¼ cup chopped sweet gherkins
1 teaspoon minced onion

Blend first four ingredients together in a mixing bowl. Stir in Tabasco and vinegar. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. YIELD: 1¾ cups.

Pear Versatile For Year Round Use

Fresh Washington Bartlett pears are now on the market which means that the time to can is close at hand. Canned pears are one of the most popular fruits for year 'round use. They will add a special touch to any meal—family style or a special occasion.

A little planning ahead of time will make summer canning an easy job. The first consideration is to buy fruit in good condition. If the fruit is not ripe when purchased, let it ripen at room temperature. Pears are picked after they have reached a certain maturity and are permitted to ripen off the tree. This will mean that the homemaker should sort the pears for canning, using those that have ripened first. Usually those in the center of the box will ripen first, as the heat is generated from the fruit. The ripening process may be hastened by placing them in a dark room, and covering the box with paper.

Bartlett pears are ripe and ready for canning when they will yield to gentle pressure and have taken on a yellow hue.

Salad Suggestions

Winter time salads become something to look forward to if you see that they have variety. Green Minted Pears are a perfect way to get variety easily. Can some this summer and serve them chilled with other fruit, cottage cheese or mayonnaise for a winter time salad that everyone will enjoy.

Green Minted Pears

Prepare a medium syrup and tint with green coloring.

Wash, peel, halve, and core Washington Bartlett Pears. Pack into clean hot jars. Add ½ teaspoon mint (spearmint) flavoring to each quart and ¼ teaspoon for each pint. Cover with syrup. Wipe jar rims, and adjust lids. Process in boiling water bath for 20 minutes.

Jam Specialty

Washington Bartlett Pears combine with orange rind to give Pear Jam a flavorful variation. This is another one of the many ways that the versatile Bartlett Pear can be used to bring true pleasure to meal service.

Pear Orange Jam

3½ cups diced Washington Bartlett Pears; 4½ cups sugar; 3 tablespoons grated orange rind; 1 box powdered fruit pectin.

Measure sugar to be added later.

Mix diced Washington Bartlett Pears and grated orange rind. Place over high heat and stir in pectin. Bring to a boil. Add sugar all at once and stir it in. Bring to a rolling boil and continue for one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir and skim for three minutes. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal at once. Makes about four half-pint jars.

Pear-Orange Honey

3 large (3 cups sliced) oranges
8 large (9 cups sliced) California Bartlett pears
¼ cup lemon juice
9 cups sugar
½ tsp. powdered ginger
¾ tsp. salt

Wash but do not peel oranges; quarter and slice crosswise into thin wedges. Wash, peel, core and quarter pears; then slice crosswise into thin wedges. Combine all ingredients in large saucepan. Boil 35 to 40 minutes or until mixture gives jelly test by sheeting from clean metal spoon (219-221 F. on candy thermometer). Pour into hot sterilized jars or jelly glasses, seal or paraffin at once. Makes about 4 pints or eight 8-ounce glasses.

Pear And Plum Jam

2½ cups diced California Bartlett pears
5 to 7 plums
Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon
1 box powdered fruit pectin
5 cups sugar

Measure sugar and place in a dish to be added later.

Britain Making Revolutionary Rocket Motor

LONDON (INS) — A British concern has started production of a tested revolutionary rocket motor which can operate beyond the earth's atmosphere and is aimed at doubling the power of jet fighters at very high altitudes.

Armstrong Siddeley, British aviation firm which pioneered the Sapphire, world's most powerful jet engine, said the "Snarler" motor also can be switched on and off at the will of the pilot.

The Snarler, developed under a security blanket since 1947, fits into a three-by-six-feet space and weighs only 215 pounds, yet develops a 2,000-pound thrust at sea level.

The motor, the first of its type and which has been extensively test-flown in the Hawker experimental aircraft, the P-1072, will be unveiled for the first time next week at the Farnborough show of the Society of British Aircraft Constructors.

H. T. Chapman, managing director of Armstrong Siddeley, a subsidiary of the Hawker Siddeley group, said that experts believe the Snarler greatly will aid development of future supersonic aircraft.

"Technically," he said, "it can be described as a liquid propellant motor and it will run for as long as fuel can be supplied.

"Already rockets have been used to assist takeoffs, but these are solid propellant motors and burn to exhaustion once they have been ignited. The pilot has no further control . . .

"The Snarler, however, can be switched on or off at will. The pilot can use it for takeoff, or for ultra rapid climbing, or for performance boosts in combat or pursuit."

Allegany County Infirmary Exterior To Get Paint Job

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners passed an order yesterday for the painting of the exterior of the Allegany County Infirmary.

Three coats of paint will be used to seal up the surface of the concrete block structure. The commissioners said the application of the special paint will prevent seepage of water through the blocks and also will add to the appearance of the building.

The infirmary was erected in 1947 at a cost of more than $250,000 and houses about 90 patients. There are also two detention wards for housing juveniles who are awaiting court action.

Permission was also obtained by the board to relocate a section of Presley Run in Election District 33 to prevent damage to a bridge across the stream. The bridge is part of the Gorman Road.

The board conferred briefly with L. B. Bohanan, of the Department of Agriculture Economics at the University of Maryland, on a survey Bohanan is making in this county.

Bohanan, who will also confer with Chamber of Commerce officials and other agencies to obtain information on the commercialization along highways in this area. He obtained some data from County Farm Agent Ralph F. McHenry on utilization of farm land for subdivisions. McHenry said very little farm land in this county has been taken over for housing developments and pointed out to Bohanan that from 65 to 75 percent of the acreage of Allegany county is woodland.

Church Will Plan Dedication Service

A meeting will be held today at 7:30 p. m. at Fairview Avenue Methodist Church to make plans for the dedication service of the new building.

The addition, which will house the Sunday School Department, was made possible by members and friends who conributed to the building fund.

Authorities Probe Thefts

Thefts totaling approximately $270 in loot and $100 in cash are being investigated by Cumberland authorities.

Addison W. Rinker, 232 Baltimore Avenue, notified police Wednesday a wallet containing between $50 and $100 was stolen from a waiting room table in his photography studio.

George Tipton, of Locust Grove, reported a .22 caliber Hornet rifle, scope block and leather sling valued at $40 was taken from his locker at the Coca Cola Bottling Works on Greene Street between August 30 and 31.

A shoplifter who gave his address as Elkins, W. Va., was arrested yesterday and given a suspended three-month jail sentence today in Trial Magistrates Court. He pleaded guilty to stealing three shirts valued at $10.35 from the Montgomery Ward and Company store here.

State and city police were alerted last night to check area pawn shops for six guns stolen in McConnellsburg, Pa. The weapons included two German Mausers, two rifles and two shotguns valued at $220.

Division of the Territory of Carolina into the colonies of North and South Carolina took place in 1729.

Officers Named By Cooperative

Reports on the operation of Southern States Cooperative in Cumberland were received and the board of directors was elected here recently with 475 members and their families taking part.

Elected to the board of directors of the Cumberland service were J. C. Hamilton, Oldtown; and Wilbur Perrin, Flintstone.

At an organization meeting following the membership meeting Paul Yoder was elected president of the board of directors.

Elected to the Cumberland Farm Home Advisory Committee were: Mrs. Roy Shryock, Jr., Oldtown, and Mrs. Stewart Delbrook, Mt. Savage.

Cairo's British Press In Midst Of World Battle With Egyptians

CAIRO (AP)—The venerable 72-year-old Egyptian Gazette—British-owned and the only English language newspaper in Cairo—is in the midst of a war of words with several Arabic newspapers.

The battle has been joined on seveal issues, most notably in recent days these two:

1. Whether Egyptian swimmers acted properly in spurning their awards won in the Daily Mail's English Channel swim, and

2. Whether rich Egyptians and newspapermen eat too much food.

The day after the news that Egyptian Channel swimmers had refused their prizes—as a protest against alleged British newspaper attacks on King Farouk—the Gazette termed the act "gross rudeness" and added:

"To attend a banquet given in one's honor and then to insult one's host is to plumb the very depths of discourtesy. x x x It is the extreme of absurdity to mix politics with sports x x x."

The Arabic newspaper Al Balagh (pro-government) took up the cudgel. It said in an editorial:

"The editorial in the British paper reflects the anger of the man who wrote it because he is a Briton. But we do not understand this discourteous insulting of people who have chosen this honorable way of protesting x x x

"These people entered the competition to x x show that they are the best swimmers in the world and not to make money."

Egyptian censors, it might be noted, changed incoming news agency stories about the prize refusal. The stories said the swimmers acted in protest against newspaper attacks on King Farouk. The censors changed this to read attacks on Egypt. It is not permissible to publish stories in Egypt about the royal family without express permission.

The debate on how much food Egyptian pashas and Egyptian newspapermen consume started with articles in the Arabic newspapers Al Mokattam and Al Balagh.

The independent Al Mokattam wrote:

"During the last war British forces and the troops of her allies filled the cities and villages of Egypt. White bread was being issued to the British soldiers while the Egyptians could not even find enough black bread."

Al Balagh in another article said British troops now in Egypt eat these percentages of essential Egyptian food supplies: Vegetables, 40 per cent; fish, 30 per cent; fruit, 25 per cent; meat 20 per cent.

The Gazette said the letter "demonstrated the arithmetical absurdity" of the statements. The paper said that Britain, though hard pressed herself for food, made wheat available for civilian consumption in Egypt.

The Gaztte added: "The dismal failure to restrain the mounting cost of living has no connection with the presence of British troops. Those who pretended it has are deliberately trying to fool their own people."

ELIGIBLE to compete for the title of "Miss France" is Micheline Renault after she had been selected "Miss Cote D'Azur" in a recent Paris beauty contest. (International)

The letter to the editor of the Gazette estimated that if the Al Balagh and Al Mokattam figures were correct—averaging their varying estimates on meat—then the 20,000,000 Egyptians received less than one eighth of one gram per day or less than half a kilogram yearly.

"But wait a minute!" the letter said:

From this we must take away what is eaten daily by the rich Egyptians and also the Egyptian newspaper owners and editors. That is far more than one kilogram a day each—not including cocktail parties and official banquets where Egyptian newspaper owners and editors rarely insult their hosts by failing to eat and drink heartily. x x x

"In summer, of course, the working men and fellahin (peasants) get a little more (to eat) because during that season about 65,000 rich Egyptians, including some newspaper owners and editors, are in Europe eating large quantities of European food, probably enough to feed at least 650,000 fellahin.

"This is a terrible picture, but I have not yet noticed that it has put any Egyptian newspaper editor off his food."

Al Mokattam in its reply referred to bread demonstrations during the war and said King Farouk himself went to a cabinet meeting and "banged the table and told the ministers x x x that he had come to demand the rights of the poor."

Morgantown Ordnance Works To Be Leased To Baltimore Concern

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (AP)—The Morgantown, W. Va., Ordnance Works, second largest ammonia plant in America, will be leased to the Mathieson Chemical Corp. of Baltimore, Md.

The Army, announcing this yesterday, said negotiations for the new contract will be completed in 30 to 60 days. Operations would be started within four months, and reach fullscale production within four months after that, the announcement said.

Undersecretary of Army Archibald S. Alexander said the Army was interested in assuring that in event of total mobilization the plant would be operated "by a concern whose experience in the field is established."

Seven Navy Fliers Are Blasted To Death

QUONSET POINT, R. I., Sept. 6 (AP)—Seven Navy fliers were blasted to death Tuesday night when their twin-engine bomber hit the sea and exploded before the eyes of observers aboard a submarine.

The Navy reported the mystery crash yesterday and said the patrol bomber, a P2V, was maneuvering "in an exercise with a submarine."

Two more submarines, surface ships and planes from here and New York searched the disaster area, 30 miles east of Montauk Point, Long Island, N. Y. It was the same stretch of sea where 41 persons drowned or are missing in a fishing boat capsizing last Saturday.

Late yesterday, however, the Navy announced that search was abandoned and there was no trace of the fliers' bodies.

Rail Stocks Grab Spotlight As Market Again Advances

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—Railroads surged ahead today in the stock market and boosted the general price level with an almost single- handed display of strength.

Rail gains ran to between $2 and $3 a share with Nickel Plate adding $5. Elsewhere the advance halted in the $1-$2 range at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks established a new 1951 high for the second straight session. The average has advanced seven straight sessions, the longest unbroken series of gains this year.

It closed up 60 cents at $98.90, the best since Sept. 20, 1930. The industrial component of the average backed down rapidly in the final hour and ended off 30 cents. The rail component, however, advanced strongly by $1.70. Utilities added 10 cents.

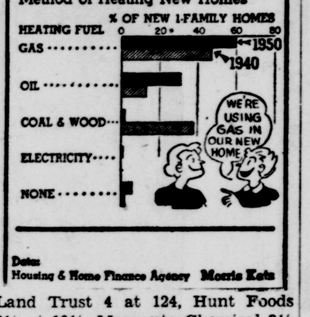

The volume expanded to 2,150,000 shares, the best since June 25. Yesterday it came to 1,850,000 shares.

The activity brought 1,164 individual issues into the market of which 558 advanced and 368 declined. There were 80 new highs, a considerable figure, and only two new lows for the year.

Stocks gaining included Atlantic Coast Line up 2¾ at 71¾, Nickel Plate 5 at 208, Illinois Central 1⅜ at 61⅜, New York Central ⅞ at 18⅝ (sixth most active), Baltimore & Ohio ½ at 20⅞ (third most active), Superior Oil of California 5 at 510, Gulf Oil 1¼ at 56, Sunray Oil ⅝ at 22⅜ (the day's most active issue), Northern Pacific 2¼ at 52 (second most active), Sinclair Oil 1¼ at 55¼, General Motors ¼ at 50⅞, Montgomery Ward 1¾ at 71, Consolidated Vultee ½ at 19½ (12th most active), American Telephone ¾ at 162¾, Dow Chemical 1½ at 113¼, Republic Pictures ⅜ at 5 (fifth most active). Some of the wider movers were Texas Pacific Land Trust 4 at 124, Hunt Foods 2⅛ at 19⅛, Monsanto Chemical 3½ at 100½, and Celanese 2¼ at 55¼.

By CENTRAL PRESS

MARION, N. C.—Thomas Edison Westall and his family are living in an aluminum alloy house built in his spare time. The mechanical engineer thinks it may be the house of tomorrow.

The odd house sits in the shadow of the Blue Ridge mountains a few miles from Marion. It is air-conditioned. It is dust-proof. It has no corners—a boon to housekeepers, says Westall.

The all-aluminum house of five rooms is just large enough for the Westall family of four. There is no wasted space. Inside the aluminum is coated with a sand-like paint, giving the walls and ceilings a look of plastered finish.

Westall doesn't know exactly what the house would cost to build, but is sure it is economical. "Cost would be a little hard to figure," he explains. "After all, I designed the place and put it together whenever I could find the time."

"Iron Curtain" Traps Anti-Red Berlin Newsmen

BERLIN— (AP) —Non-Communist German newsmen in West Berlin have a double-duty job: Beating the deadline and the kidnaper.

Since 1947 at least 30 newspaper workers have disappeared into Russian-controlled territory.

Others were arrested openly and word has filtered out they have been given stiff sentences in Russian zone jails and concentration camps.

It appears to be an important part of the Communist terror campaign against the West, especially designed to scare off anti-Communist German journalists.

While the kidnapings go on the Communist press continually reviles Western newspapermen as "criminals" and the like.

One of the earliest and best known journalists to disappear was Dieter Friede, 42-year-old employe of the West Berlin newspaper Der Abend. West Berlin authorities tried in vain to save him after he was tricked into entering the east sector in October, 1947. Friede is reported serving a 25-year-sentence in an East German labor camp.

Wolfgang Hanske, 23-year-old West Berliner, went across the sector border in 1948 to cover the big Communist putsch which split the city. He never came back.

Two young German cameramen, driving from Berlin to West Germany, were stopped inside the Soviet zone. Accused of breaking a Communist "control law" they were tried, convicted and sent to prison.

Now most German journalists going to Berlin travel by plane.

One of the latest reporters to be listed as missing is Lothar Mueller. He went into Berlin's east side to cover a story, exchanged words with a people's police officer, and hasn't been heard from since.

Some West Berlin editors have been publicly marked for arrest and dare not venture near the sector boundary even in broad daylight.

The ultimate fate of those arrested is known only in a few cases. Take Wolfgange Schipke, for example, who worked for a West Berlin agency.

They know what happened to him. He died in a Russian zone concentration camp.

Sterility Can Be State Of Mind, Scientists Say

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

DURHAM, N. C.—(AP)—There are 78 significant causes of sterility in women and 79 in men.

They came from more than ten years study of more than 500 sterile couples and from success in 35 per cent of the cases, totaling about 175 pregnancies, including one set of twins.

There have been no malformed babies, a fear that has haunted many childless couples, who worried that if they succeeded the baby might not be normal.

The Duke team is Dr. Clarence D. Davis and Dr. Violet H. Turner. They have noted that philosophy, psychology, ambition and emotions play a role in fertility.

The physical causes include such things as smoking, weight, metabolism and diet. But no diet has been found which by itself alone either causes or prevents fertility. In men, sexual development and veneral disease may be factors. In women, blocked Fallopian tubes and previous gynecological operations.

In most couples two to six factors were the causes of infertility. These couples had been childless for an average of three to four years. The Duke record of 35 per cent looks better when viewed against the background fact that no couple was refused, even those known to be hopeless.

The male idea that it's all his wife's fault is giving the Duke doctors much less trouble now than ten years ago.

An important cause of sterility is psychosomatic the term describing the effects of worry upon the body.

Even lesser things than outright worry seem to cause sterility. One of the these is sometimes the point of view of the young wife who is going to quit her job as soon as she is pregnant. But she doesn't get that way. Here at the clinic the advice to young couples is for the wife to quit her job before, instead of after.

Another sign of the psychosomatic effect is the clinic's record that nearly half of the pregnancies came even before the wives' examinations were complete.

"Sometimes," Dr. Davis says, "we suspect that many of them get pregnant because they think they will, rather than because of what we do for them."

There has been only one complaint, a letter reading:

"Now that we have gotten started how do we stop?"

Louis Braille, inventor of the system of "blind" writing, himself was blind from childhood.

Psychologist Says Picture Test Spots Sex Criminals

CHICAGO, Sept. 5 (AP) —A new test, using sexy and non-sexy pictures spots sex offenders and could help prevent sex crimes, a psychologist said today.

The prevention would come through spotting youngsters who are potential criminals, and treating them psychiatrically, said Dr. Harold Lindner, clinical psychologist of the McGuire Veterans Hospital, Richmond, Va.

The test might also help tell when it is "safe" for convicted sex offenders to live normally again in society, he told the American Psychologicgal Association.

Dr. Lindner ran the test on 67 convicted sex criminals, all with a long history of abnormal sexuality, and 67 men serving time for non-sexual crimes. The study was made at the Maryland House of Correction.

One phase of the test is line drawings. Each starts simply, using only one or two lines. In five steps, it builds up to either a sexy drawing, or something as innocent as the human eye.

Sex offenders saw sex in these drawings far sooner than other men. They even saw sex in the innocent drawings.

The second phase was vague, incomplete drawings. They could represent abnormal sex behavior, and the sex offenders always saw them that way. Other criminals saw them differently, with no sex tieup.

The first annual Western Maryland Invitational Softball Tournament, sponsored by the Cumberland Recreation Department, will get under way on Monday at Penn Avenue Field, Edmund F. Hoey, director, announced last night.

Quarter final contests will be staged on Monday and Tuesday, semi-finals on Wednesday at 6 and 7:30 p. m., and the finals on Thursday at 6 p. m.

Quarter-finalists in the upper brackets of the draw will clash Monday. At 6 p. m., the F. O. Eagles of the Rocking Chair League will play either a County League or Mineral County League team. At 7:30, the Amvets of the Mens Rec League will oppose C. & P. Telephone of the Industrial League.

Lower bracket quarter finalists will collide on Tuesday. At 6 p. m. the B. P. O. Elks of the Rocking Chair League will meet Corriganville of the County League and at 7:45 Hercules Powder Company of the Industrial League will battle Cunningham's Grocery of the Men's Rec League.

Each team may add not more than two other players from their own league to their roster for the tournament contests.

Team an individual trophies and a trophy for the outstanding player will be awarded.

Proceeds of the four-day tourney will go toward the formation of a four-team uniformed baseball League for 15 and 16 year-old boys, to be known as the "Sportsmans League."

Terps Mail Tickets

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 6 (AP)—Season tickets for Maryland's home football games will be placed in the mail tomorrow, the university's athletic office announced today.

The pre-season sale is the biggest in the school's history, the office said. There was no number of total sales available, however.

Tickets will go on sale to the public the first of next week.

World Series Ticket Scale Is Unchanged

Fall Classic Opens October 3rd Or 4th

BY TED SMITS

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—Barring play-offs, the world series will open on Wednesday, Oct. 3, unless Cleveland wins the American League pennant in which case it will start Thursday, Oct. 4, in Cleveland.

Representatives of the pennant contenders decided today in a three-hour meeting to keep the same ticket scale as last year and eliminated any open days for travel.

Attending the meeting were the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants of the National League, and the Cleveland Indians, New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox of the American League. The Chicago White Sox were invited but apparently decided the outlook was hopeless.

The reason for the later starting date in Cleveland is that two big conventions have tied up all available hotel space there through Oct. 3.

Tickets will cost $8.00 for box seats, $6.00 for reserved seats, $4.00 for standing room and $1.00 for bleacher seats. This scale prevails everywhere except Cleveland where it is $8.00 for box seats, $6.25 for reserved seats, $4.00 for standing room in the stands and runways, $2.00 for standing room in the outfield, and $1.00 for the bleachers. Tickets will be sold in strips of four for the American League park and three for the National League park.

The series opens this year in the American League park where the first two games will be played, followed by three games in the National League park, and then two in the American—assuming of course more than four games are needed in the best four of seven competition.

In the other unlikely event of a tie in the National League, the playoff by league rules is a best

St. Louis Cards Wallop Chicago

Cliff Chambers Posts 12th Win Of Year, 10-2

CHICAGO, Sept. 6 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals slugged the offerings of four pitchers for 11 hits, including four home runs, a triple and two doubles, for a 10 to 2 victory over the Chicago Cubs today.

A slim Wrigley Field crowd of 3,876 saw the bombardment, led by Hal Rice, whose fourth home run of the year and a triple drove in four runs, and Billy Johnson, who hammered home three runs with his 12th homer, a double and a single.

Although he required relief from rookie Dick Bokelmann, Cliff Chambers received credit for his 12th victory against 11 losses. Box:

Yellow Jackets Meet Sentinels For Fifth Time

Locals Put 17-Game Win Streak On Line In Game At 8 P. M.

Football will make its 1951 bow in Cumberland tonight with Fort Hill High School's Sentinels slated to battle the Yellow Jackets of Moorefield (W. Va.) High School at the local stadium at 8 o'clock.

The Sentinels, undefeated and untied in nine games last season and victorious in their last 17 contests, will be playing in Hardy County school for the fifth consecutive year and will be angling for their fifth victory over the West Virginians.

Fort Hill defeated Moorefield, 27-14, 34-0, 48-6 and 32-0 in the series which started in 1947 and will be the favorite in tonight's lid-lifter.

Play Seven Home Games

Tonight's game will be the first of seven at home for Fort Hill. After Moorefield comes Linsly Institute of Wheeling, Martinsburg, LaSalle, Ridgeley, Hagerstown and Allegany. The Sentinels are carded to play away from home against West Fairmont (W. Va.) and Westminster (Md.)

William P. Hahn started his 7th season as head coach of the Sentinels tonight. His teams have won 48, lost 4 and tied 4.

George Fazio Leads Empire State Open

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 6 (AP)—George Fazio of Pine Valley, N. J., posted a 69 to take the lead at the end of the first round of the $15,000 Empire State Open Golf Tournament.

The opening of the second annual tourney at the Shaker Ridge Country Club course was marred by an all-day rain.

Fazio, who lost a three-way playoff to Ben Hogan and Lloyd Mangrum in the 1949 U. S. Open in Philadelphia, was two-under-par. He knifed one stroke off par on each nine with a 35-34.

Bunched at 70 were Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex., Doug Ford, Harrison, and Buck White, Greenwood, Miss.

Last year's titleholder, Skip Alexander of St. Petersburg, Fla., was way off the pace with a 39-37—76.

ROCKING CHAIR LEAGUE CHAMPIONS—The Fraternal Order of Eagles, Aerie No. 245, are the 1951 champions of the Rocking Chair Softball League. They won the pennant and copped the playoffs by winning the third and deciding game of their series with the B.P.O. Elks yesterday, 3-0. The F.O.E. won 27 and lost 2 during the regular league campaign and took four of five playoff series games. The squad, left to right: FIRST ROW—Ray Weimer, Fritz Palmer, Jim Jones, Al Sheetz, Mike Mulvey, Pete Elliott and "Chug" Aman with "Chum" Poling, mascot, seated in front. SECOND ROW—Chet Collins, Doyle George, "Red" Boyer, Lamar "Moose" Minnick, Sammy DeLuca, Elmer Lashley, Lou Riehl, "Soc" Summers and "Monk" Dorsey.

Eagles Conquer Elks, 3-0, To Retain Softball Title

Sheetz Racks Up 11th Shutout And 20th Win

Wielding the whitewash brush for the 11th time this season, Allan Sheetz pitched the Fraternal Order of Eagles to the championship of the Rocking Chair Softball League yesterday when he defeated the B. P. O. Elks by the score of 3-0 in the deciding game of their three-game series at Stitcher Field.

The victory gave the Eagles the title for the second straight season. Sheetz scored three of his shutouts in the playoffs in which he won four and lost one. His season's record against league teams, including the playoffs, is 20 wins and one defeat. Nineteen wins came in consecutive order. Last year he twirled the Eagles to the championship, winning 15 and losing two, including 11 shutout triumphs.

"Doc" Summers' double, Lou Riehl's infield hit and a wild throw by "Pooch" Orndorff gave the Eagles their winning marker in the fourth inning. In the fifth DeLuca and Sheetz singled, Lamar Minnick sacrificed and DeLuca scored on Collins' fielders choice. Aman singled over Sheetz with the final tally.

"Pete" Elliott turned in a nice catch at short in the 7th inning. He leaped high into the air to knock down a line drive with his gloved hand then grabbed the ball while it was still in the air with his barehand. Mike Mulvey starred in

Yankees, Boston Halted By Rain

Teams To Play Eight Games Last 10 Days

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—Rain washed out today's double-header between the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox, making it necessary for these two teams to play eight games against each other during the final 10 days of the season.

Today's games have been rescheduled as part of doubleheaders here on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 28 & 29. The teams are listed for a single game on the season's final day Sunday, Sept. 30, which makes this series a five-game affair.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 21-22-23, the Yanks and Red Sox are scheduled to play a three-game series in Boston, where the New Yorkers have yet to win a game this season.

If bad weather further postpones Yankee-Red Sox games, they may be played Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 1 and 2, according to the American League rules. That is, if either the Yankees or Red Sox still are in contention by then—which is almost a certainty.

Darrell Glass limited the visitors to seven hits including a triple and single by Bill Groves. Glass paced the Pen-Mar batsmen with three singles, Ranker smashed a homer and single and Witt and Johnson rapped a pair of singles each.

The game was limited to five innings because of darkness.

The third game of the series will be staged next week. Score:

YOU can shave faster, closer, smoother and with greater comfort with the sensational new Model "W" Sunbeam Shavemaster. You don't need days or weeks to find out what Shavemaster can do with your beard. A quick free trial at our store with this marvelous Shavemaster will tell the story. Why not see for yourself?

The average man takes 7 minutes to lather up and shave with soap-and-blade. Such men will take only a fraction of that time with the Model "W" Sunbeam Shavemaster. And even those men with the heaviest, darkest beards and tenderest skin—who take a long time to shave with soap-and-blade—will get a closer and more comfortable shave in LESS TIME than they take with soap-and-blade.

To prove this to yourself, let your beard grow for 24 hours or longer and visit our store. We will be glad to let you shave with this sensational Sunbeam Shavemaster any time. There is no "breaking in" time necessary with the Sunbeam Shavemaster. You can prove with your very first shave that the Shavemaster will give you a faster shave—a closer shave—a more comfortable shave, in LESS TIME than any other method, wet or dry.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS
(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6 (INS)—Next small fry special on the agenda of Abbott and Costello is "The Wedding of Tom Thumb," a musical fantasy with puppet and "live" characters. Aimed directly for children on their 1952 schedule, this follows their current "Jack and the Beanstalk" picture on the boys' independent setup.

Hoagy Carmichael

Tom Thumb and his wife will be the puppet characters. Bud and Lou play brothers who befriend the dolls, and the wedding of Tom Thumb and his Lilliputian sweetheart takes place on the palm of Costello's hand.

Songwriters Bob Russell and Lester Lee, who scored "Beanstalk," will write the tunes for "Tom Thumb."

• — • — •

Hoagy Carmichael, working as an actor on "Belles on Their Toes" at 20th, is dividing his time between the set and the front offices where he is talking like an author.

If the money is right, Hoagy will sell his autobiography, "The Star Dust Road," to the studio for a musical. Strangely enough, considering the good actor he is, Hoagy does not want to play himself in the picture.

With the sale of the life story of the composer goes rights to his song, "Star Dust," one of the loveliest ever written.

• — • — •

John Forsythe, who played the Henry Fonda role in the road company of "Mr. Roberts," starts his screen career on a five-year contract with Mark Robson and Robert Wise, who have signed him up for their independent productions.

Forsythe is an alumnus of the actor's studio which gave us Marlon Brando, Mildred Dunnock and Jan Sterling.

His first picture for Robson and Wise's company, Aspen Productions, is "The Tight Rope" which starts in Reno, Nevada, late this month.

If gossip is true that Hedy Lamarr and Ted Stauffer are already having trouble, some "inside" I heard on why she happened to sell all her possessions, including her clothes, soon after their marriage, is ironically funny.

The tale goes that Hedy's psychiatrist advised her to dispose of everything she owned and make a complete break with the past so she could start out life anew with her bridegroom!

Hedy did just that via the auction rooms.

If she and Stauffer separate — Hedy really will be starting out fresh, minus everything, including a bridegroom.

Hollywood in shorts:

Deanna Durbin will replace Patricia Morison in "Kiss Me, Kate" in London if Pat gets her way and bows out of the musical for concert and night club engagements.

John Carroll opens at the Versailles in New York September 12—the same night Sugar Ray Robinson fights Randy Turpin in an effort to regain his title. Sugar Ray has told John he'll be on hand for his New York debut—win or lose with Turpin.

Charles Coburn will be in a top spot with Piper Laurie in "Oh, Money, Money" when the U-I comedy starts September 27.

June Haver's romance with her favorite baseball player seems to be fading with the season. Her two most recent escorts are Joe Campbell of the department store Campbells, and John Campbell, good looking 20th publicist.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

The Gamut From A To Z

It was Dorothy Parker who is credited with that devastating line of criticism during an intermission of a play. "Well, let's go back and watch Miss Hepburn run the gamut from A to B." A small range. I bring it up only because the whole gamut of emotions, from A to Z, is in the process of being catalogued for the benefit of actors at the drama and music branch of the New York Public Library.

John Crosby

If an actor wants to bone up on, say Anger, he can check under Angry where a card will direct him straight to "A Bell for Adano." Act II Scene I, starting: "M.P. Headquarters—Captain Purvis. Oh hello, Lieutenant, how are you today?" From there on the scene gets angrier and angrier. The file was set up by Miss Mary Hatch, the librarian, after a consultation with NBC and CBS as a means of giving actors and actresses material to try out for parts on television. It's now used by all sorts of actors in search of an emotion.

• • •

They'll find lots of them. Under Moods, Female, for example, the gamut amounts almost to an indictment either of the female sex or of the playwrights who write about them. The passages selected by Miss Hatch under this category is dominated by the Angrys. There are 15 Females, Angry; and nine Females, Bitter. There are no Females, Happy, but there are two Females, Gay, and one Female—Hedda Gabler, of all people — Exultant. The other female moods — as catalogued by Miss Hatch—read almost like blank poetry. There are four Complaining, one Declaiming, two Explaining. Two are defiant. One is Demented. Four are Despairing.

Eleven of the girls are Earnest, 11 Excited, 10 Frightened. Alphabetically the others are Gossiping (1), Insinuating (1), Ironic, (2), Mourning (1), Patronizing (3), Pleading (8), Reflective (8)—including one Prostitute, Reflective—Remorseful (3), Reproving (2), Sad (6), Sinister (2), Talkative (3), Tearful (3), Tender (8), Wistful (7), and—a fitting end to the gamut—Worried (6). That's all the moods there are so far, girl, and most of them are unpleasant. But then the list isn't complete yet.

• • •

The passages which contain all these moods were dredged from about 100 of the best Broadway and European plays. Eventually, Miss Hatch plans to catalogue passages from all the plays in the library, a tremendous task. The file is broken down into Male and Female Classifications, then into Young, Mature, Old, and finally into Serious and Comic. Love scenes, drunkard scenes and death scenes are classified separately. Even occupations are classified. If you want a part as an earnest doctor, you look under Men, Mature, and you'll find an Earnest Doctor. There's also a Bitter Architect who turns out to be Brown of Eugene O'Neill's "Great God Brown."

Dialects have been categorized so minutely that nothing is considered non-dialect except pure theateh or, shall we say, the Ethel Barrymore dialect. Along with the more ordinary dialects—Down East, Mountaineer, New England, Pennsylvania Dutch and so forth—you'll find such refinements as American Soldier dialect (from Irwin Shaw's "Bury The Dead"), Tough dialect, and Uneducated dialect (Most of it from Sidney Howard's "They Know What They Wanted"). New Yorkers will be enchanted to find they're not considered among American dialects at all. New Yorkese is listed separately under N and reads "New York City, Eastside." (Over on the West Side, I guess they're back in America.)

• • •

And, of course, the collection is brimful of Love, all kinds of love. You Want Love in a Bronx accent. The cards direct you to Arthur Kober's "Having A Wonderful Time."

"Y'know, Teddy, the more I see of you, the more goofy I get. Right now I'm overwhelmed with goofiness."

Or perhaps Love Scene, Thief: "Listen to me, Natasha, . . . I want to speak to wou." (Gorki's "The Lower Depths.")

Or maybe the young actor wants to try out for the part of a banker in love. He turns to Love Scene, Banker, and there (from Edward Sheldon's "Romance") is exactly the right mood, right dialect, right words: Van Tuyl (tenderly): 'God knows I'm not complaining . . ."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

K. Of C. Dux Loop To Open Sunday

The Knights of Columbus Bowling League which has been in operation for about 30 years will begin its 1951-52 season Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Club Recreation Bowling Alleys.

President John Loibel has requested that members assemble about 1:30 p.m. Sunday to aid and facilitate in the formation of the teams. He said the league's four teams would be captained by the four highest averaged bowlers of last season. They are Tommy McGeady, Ed "Pie" Conley, Joe Felten and Billy "Pick" McDermott.

The league will play a split season schedule of 14 weeks in each half. The teams will be the Grand Knights, Chancellors, Recorders and Guards.

Boom Boom Captures Steeplechase Event

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP) — James Cox Brady's Boom Boom, well handled by Robert S. McDonald, turned loose a strong stretch charge to win the 34th running of the $10,000 added Harbor Hill Steeplechase Handicap before a rainy day crowd of 15,093 at Aqueduct Race Track today.

The gelded 6-year-old son of Case Ace-War Feathers scored by two lengths over Rokeby Stable's Genancoke, who, in turn finished three quarters of a length to the good of Lowry Watkins' Tourist List in the blanket finish that found all but one of the field of eight close up. Mrs. Ogden Phipps' Oedipus, the favorite, and Montpelier's Hampton Roads, dead heated for fourth a head behind Tourist List.

The victory was the third in eight starts for Boom Boom and added $7,900 to his earnings.

World Series

two-of-three series—and this could delay the start of the series.

In case of a two-way tie in the American League, a single game settles it. A three-way tie would require two games—the first to eliminate one of the contenders, and the second to settle the flag race.

For the first time this year a new baseball rule comes into play. If, when the season ends on Sunday, Sept. 30, any games postponed by bad weather still have a bearing on the race they can be played on Monday and Tuesday in the American League. The National League has set aside only Monday for such contests.

Wertz Asks Divorce

YORK, Pa., Sept. 6 (AP) — Vic Wertz, slugging Detroit Tiger outfielder, has filed an action for divorce against his wife, Mrs. Bernice M. Wertz, of nearby Dallastown charging "indignities of the person."

Mrs. Wertz said at her home here that the first she knew of her husband's action was when she read it in the newspaper.

"This is a complete surprise to me. I don't know what his reasons are. You'll have to ask Vic," she said.

Corriganville Grabs Opener

Beats P.V. Cubs, 4-2, Kauffman Bags 29th

Corriganville's pennant winning aggregation drew first blood in the County Softball League playoffs by whipping the Potomac Valley Cubs yesterday in the opener of the best-of-three series at Corriganville. The score was 4-2.

The second game is set for Monday at 6 p. m. at Triple Lakes.

Pete Cecil's two-run homer gave Potomac Valley the lead in the first inning but Corriganville tied it up at 2-all in the third on Ronnie Schad's hit, Kauffman's sacrifice, Clites' walk and successive errors by the shortstop and pitcher.

Ronnie Schad's long fly to left field scored what proved to be the deciding tally in the fourth stanza after Leo Fleegle doubled. Price walked and Rice sacrificed both runners. The Corgs added an "insurance" run in the 6th when Schad smacked a two-bagger and scored on Kauffman's single.

Glenn Kauffman who won 28 and lost 5 during the regular season, turned back the Cubs with five hits. He also rapped a double and single while "Red" Whitman garnered a pair of one-base wallops. Pete Cecil homered and singled and Gilbert Lease and Bill Thompson larruped two-baggers for the losers.

The second game of the LaVale-Ellerslie semi-final series will be played today at 6 p. m. at Ellerslie. LaVale took the opener, 14-5. Yesterday's score:

Jack West, Accused Fixer Of Basketball Games, Surrenders

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—(AP)—Jack "Zip" West, accused as a fixer in the big college basketball scandal, gave himself up today because "I'm tired of living like a hunted animal."

He was held in $50,000 bail, charged with bribery and conspiracy.

A nationwide manhunt had been on for him since he was indicted in July. He was charged with offering a $10,000 bribe to Gene Melchiorre, Bradley University's All-America, to throw a 1950 championship basketball game with City College of New York. Melchiorre said he turned down the bribe.

The district attorney's office called the alleged bribe offer "a preliminary indictment and xxx only a minute part of his activities."

He gave himself up today to two reporters for the New York Post, Irving Lieberman and William J. Keegan.

Cancel Playoffs

FLINT, Mich., Sept. 6 (AP)—The Central League will discard its usual post-season playoffs this year, President Thomas J. Halligan said today.

The season closed this Sunday. Dayton holds a four and a half game lead over Muskegon and can cinch the pennant by winning one more game.

The league has suffered from attendance and franchise difficulties this season. Last year's playoffs drew slim crowds.

Textile Plant To Reopen

Partial Recall Of Employes Now Planned

Silk Mill Operation Slated For Monday

The General Textile Mill at Lonaconing will be reopened Monday with the recall of 15 to 30 employes if raw silk, now en route to the plant arrives, Charles W. Walters plant superintendent, announced last night.

The opening of operations in the textile plant is heartening news for that stricken area which had an acute unemployment problem forced upon it three weeks ago when the plant was forced to shut down because of production difficulties.

Walters, in making the announcement, added that as production increased in the plant, additional workers will be called back until the entire force is working again.

200 Employes Furloughed

The mill began shutting down Tuesday, August 14 and closed completely that Saturday, Walters explained, after receiving orders from the company's New York headquarters.

The 200 employes working at the mill at the time were all furloughed with many going on relief. This catastrophe along with the closing of soft coal mines in the area created a terrific unemployment problem at the time.

The company had an average payroll between $15,000 and $17,000 every two weeks at the time of its shutdown.

Began Operating In 1907

The plant was constructed and began operations April 7, 1907, and had worked almost continuously as a silk and rayon throwing and spinning mill except for 10 months in 1945 when a production slump occurred and forced a shutdown. When the plant reopened in October of that year it continued its operations until its present three-weeks layoff.

At the time of the present shutdown Walters had expressed the belief the stoppage was only temporary and said last night he was glad his faith had been rewarded.

Lonaconing has been hard hit by unemployment and the shutdown of the textile mill, which was regarded as its largest industry, came as a severe blow. Employes of the plant, are from Frostburg, Midland, Westernport, Barton, Pekin, Ocean, and National as well as Lonaconing, Walters pointed out.

TWINS START TO SCHOOL—Among the many boys and girls who reported to the first grade at Mt. Royal School yesterday morning were these twin brothers. The boys, left to right, are Robert and Richard Brust, sons of Mr. and Mrs. A. Trago Brust, Jr., 858 Greene Street. Throughout the county some 15,500 pupils reported for classes as the new 1951-52 school year began. School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp reported that the first day went by without incident. Another half-day session is planned today, with regular schedules beginning M onday.

Culvert Openings Are Barricaded

The city has placed barricades around the openings of a 12-inch corrugated metal culvert pipe beneath Greenway Avenue at the intersection of Kent Avenue to prevent damage to the pipe and vehicles on the thoroughfare until repair can be made on the line, the city engineering department said yesterday.

The culvert pipe is not long enough to reach the entire distance across the roadway and residents said automobiles continually were striking the openings causing damage to the pipe and the vehicles.

In an effort to make traffic drive around the culvert openings on each side of the avenue, barricades have been placed at the openings. A delay in the procurement of pipe line to lengthen the culvert and make the necessary repairs has held up construction, engineers said.

Numerous complaints have been received from area residents about the situation, many contending the barricades are an eyesore. However, the temporary blocks will be maintained until further action is taken, city officials stated.

Democrats Name Convention Delegates

The Young Democrat Club of Allegany County last night elected seven delegates and a like number of alternates to attend the state convention of Young Maryland Democrats in Carvel Hall, Annapolis, September 21 and 22.

According to the president of the local club, Leslie J. Clark, delegates include Harry Kauffman, David Kauffman, F. Allan Weatherholt, William Walsh, Leslie Clark, William L. Wilson, Jr., and William H. Buchholtz.

The alternates are Mrs. Anne B. Everline, John Mackey, Thomas B. Finan, James B. Raines, Mildred A. Flynn, Graydon S. Dunlap, and Urner F. Wigfield.

Last night's meeting, held in the Algonquin Hotel, was the first meeting of the fall and winter season. Sessions of the club had been suspended for the summer months.

Clark indicated a meeting of the delegates and alternates will be called in a few days for the purpose of organization and planning the trip to and from Annapolis.

Lint Fire Extinguished

Central Fire Company answered a call yesterday at 2:52 p. m. and extinguished a fire in a lint bin in the rear of the Crystal Laundry, South Mechanic Street. Firemen reported little damage.

Parochial School Enrollment Reaches 1,540

SS. Peter And Paul's Has Biggest Total

Cumberland's parochial schools, which opened their new term Wednesday, have a total enrollment of 1,540 pupils, a check with school officials last night indicated.

The total includes 1,127 in grade schools and 413 in high schools. Heaviest grade school enrollment is at SS. Peter and Paul's School, with 417. Following are St. Patrick's, 375, and St. Mary's, 335.

Catholic high school enrollment includes LaSalle, 167; Ursuline Academy, 100; Girls' Cenreal Catholic, 95, and St. Mary's, 51.

Enrollment figures from the Catholic schools in the county were incomplete.

St. Peter's in Westernport reports a total enrollment of 211, 164 in grade school and 47 on the high school level. The grade school enrollment included 87 boys and 83 girls. Enrolled in the high schools are 33 girls and 14 boys. The enrollments are about the same as last year.

St. Joseph's School at Midland, which operated only on the grade school level, has 116 enrolled. St. Michael's in Frostburg has about 350 enrolled although a complete report has not yet been received. Officials of St. Patrick's School in Mt. Savage could not be reached.

Rainfall Brings Drought Relief

Much needed rain fell in the Cumberland area yesterday morning and afternoon bringing some relief in the dry spell which has plagued this section of the state for the past month.

The amount of precipitation which fell yesterday was .71, according to the official weather station at Constitution Park.

The rain was a welcome sight to Cumberlanders since grass, trees and vegetation throughout the city are showing results of the dryness.

The possibility of more showers late last night were forecast and today the skies are expected to be cloudy with cooler weather tonight.

Up until yesterday morning, a total of .62 of an inch of rain had fallen in this area from August 10, and the precipitation yesterday was the highest recorded for one day since June 26, when .62 of an inch fell.

TRANSFERRED—John R. Wilson, 609 North Mechanic Street, has been transferred to the engineer's office at City Hall effective September 1. Six months ago he began working in the street and alley department warehouse as a clerk. He is married and has four children.

Rev. Thomas To Speak At Dedication

Baptist Church Event Will Be Held Sunday

Rev. Clifton C. Thomas, Baltimore, general secretary of the Maryland Baptist Association, will deliver the principal message at the formal dedication of the new edifice of Grace Baptist Church, Greene Street, Sunday afternoon.

His topic, at the service beginning at 2:30 p.m., will be "Dedicating God's House." Rev. Thomas will also speak at the 11 a.m. service on, "Answering The Call of God," and at the evening service at 8 p.m. on "The Church and World Conditions."

The pastor, Rev. W. Randolph Keefe, said all local Baptist churches, as well as several out-of-town ministers, will take part in the services.

The Grace Baptist edifice was recently completed, with the congregation moving from the old church on North Mechanic Street two Sundays ago.

Overflow Expected

Rev. Keefe said an overflow turnout is anticipated for the dedication services. Additional seating capacity is being set up in the fellowship room of the basement where a public address system will carry the services.

Rev. William B. Orndorff, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Westernport, will give the invocation, with the congregational hymn theme being "I Love Thy Kingdom, Lord." Rev. Kenneth M. Hayes, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, this city, will give the scripture reading.

Health Office Must Check All Sewage Units

Progress Is Noted In Area Sanitation

Sewage disposal installations should not be filled in until Health Department sanitarians inspect the work, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, warned yesterday.

Failure to secure such an inspection can delay the issuance of a building permit by Allegany County authorities, he added.

Some 25 permits, most of them for new construction, are being issued by the Health Department here each month, according to J. B. Dowling, state sanitarian.

Permits to begin construction of excretia disposal plants are issued by the Health Department upon application. At that time, sanitarians advise the home owner on correct procedure and furnish plans approved by the Allegany County Health Department.

When construction of the disposal system is nearing completion, the builder must ask for an inspection of the construction or reconstruction of the set up.

A completion certificate, needed to secure a building permit, is then issued and the sanitary system may be covered up.

The year has seen a tremendous improvement in the excretia disposal system throughout the county as a result of a concerted drive by the State Roads Commission, the Board of Allegany County Commissioners and the Health Department to eliminate the drainage of sewage upon public highways.

The Weather

Children returning to school for the fall term were given an opportunity to sport their rain gear yesterday morning. The weatherman provided the Queen City area with much needed rain. The high as recorded in the official weather station at Constitution Park was 80 degrees, the low 63 and at 9:30 p. m. yesterday the mercury registered 64 degrees. The total amount of rainfall was .71 and humidity at 6 p. m. was 77 per cent. Forecast for today is cloudiness with the temperature nearing the 80's. Cooler weather is predicted for tonight's football game between Fort Hill and Moorefield.

Pollution Now Rated Below 1941 Level

River Commission Meets At Bedford

Pollution in the Potomac River basin has been reduced gradually during the 10-year existence of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River, the technical committee of the commission noted in a review of pollution abatement conditions in the basin in Washington and the Luke-Cumberland areas. The largest progress has been noted in the local area the committee reports.

The committee will make its recommendations in a report to the membership today at the closing session at Bedford Springs Hotel, Bedford, Pa. It stated efforts of Cumberland to create a sewage disposal unit and the cooperation of the Celanese Corporation and West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke were highly successful in forwarding the program.

However the group noted that the Luke plant has cut its waste discharge into the Potomac River by 50 per cent through a newly completed recovery plant and this has created another problem.

Acid Content Rises

The waste from the paper plant was alkaline in nature and neutralized the acid waters seeping into the river from abandoned mines in the area and from other industries along the riverfront.

Now that the alkaline waste has been curtailed sharply, it has caused the acid content to rise, introducing new problems for plants farther down the river which use great quantities of river water.

At an afternoon session of the commission, heated arguments pro and con for the proposed C. and O. Canal parkway between Cumberland and the nation's capital, highlighted the meeting.

I. Alvin Pasarew, Baltimore, director of the Maryland Planning Commission, pointed out his group is "on the fence" in the dispute.

He said the Planning Commission believed the principal problem facing the general membership was if the recreation benefits, if any, and the industrial benefits, if any, would be worth the expenditure necessary to build the parkway.

Urges More Study

He added, "to think only of recreation is to set our sights too low and to limit our perspective." Pasarew then pointed out that industry in the Potomac River basin had increased more than the overall average of the state. He advocated a further study of the values toward economy.

Fighting bitterly against the proposed parkway Frank Wachter, secretary of the Pennsylvania Glass and Sand Company, told the commission he was not a representative of his company but appeared as a former member of the Maryland Pollution Commission and a representative of the Hagerstown Chamber of Commerce. He said he had been selected to head a group from Hagerstown formed solely to fight the proposed parkway.

Wachter blamed government ownership of canal property for the failure of a duPont Powder Company plant being located in Hagerstown.

He said duPont had optioned 900 acres of land on the river for an explosive plant which would employ approximately 200 persons, adding that when the company discovered the government owned a strip of the acreage and a permit would be necessary to use the land the duPont people decided to locate across the river in West Virginia. Wachter estimated it cost Hagerstown $300,000 in wages and trade because of the move.

Wachter also claimed the engineers reporting on the site for the parkway "glossed over" estimates of damages expected from floods on the highway, pointing out that damage to C&O property in the Washington area alone in 1942 cost $200,000. He declared the $17,000,000 expenditure for the parkway would recreate "an historical antique" not warranted in view of the prominence placed on the canal in national history.

The Hagerstown opponent then stated emphatically "the only economic advantage to Western Maryland would be tourist trade and disadvantages are not condusive to industry. Industry is worth more permanently that hamburger stand

Cooking School To Stress Proper Meat Preparation

Miss Ruth Hogan will assist at the "Thrifty Kitchen Cooking School" being held four days next week at the Strand Theatre beginning at 9 a.m. Tuesday. The school is being sponsored by Times-News.

Well trained in home economics, Miss Hogan is an artist in the arrangement of foods and in the garnishing of the various dishes. This fact will be evident in the parade of foods which is carried on at the close of each cooking school session, each of the foods prepared being shown to the audience through a magic mirror.

One phase of the instruction, which will be of particular interest to every homemaker who prides herself on her ability in preparing meat dishes, will be the story of low temperature meat cookery.

Numerous carefully controlled tests conducted in home economics laboratories across the country have proved that it pays to cook meat at low heat. The tests show there is less shrinkage and hence more meat to serve, the meat is juicier and more tender, it is more uniformly done throughout and it tastes better than when a high temperature is used.

The school will get underway Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Housewives of the area are urged to attend each session of the four day program.

JC's To Attend State Meeting

Five members of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce will attend the state Jaycee Meeting in Hagerstown September 22-23.

Representatives appointed at a business meeting Wednesday night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club include J. Kenneth Morgan, Arthur C. Morgan, Arthur C. Crum, David J. Moreland and Craig Thompson.

Committee reports were discussed and plans made for the next two months. Also discussed were further plans on the part Jaycees will play in the Glidden Antique Auto Tour scheduled in Cumberland September 23-24.

The Jaycees will hold their annual summer outing Sunday at Camp Potomac, operated by Potomac Council, Boy Scouts, near Oldtown. The program will get underway at 2 p. m. according to Henry A. Mackey, president, and will include canoeing, swimming, softball, badminton, volley ball and horseshoes.

Meals will be served in the mess hall by the scout camp cooks. Heading the entertainment committee for the picnic are Bruce Douglas and Richard Sell.

Ossip Named Bond Chairman

George Ossip has been appointed Bond Chairman for the Cumberland area by Lee L. Dopkin, Maryland State Chairman, State of Israel Bonds.

"I accepted the post of Israel Bond chairman for the Cumberland area primarily because as an American, I feel it is vital that Israel develop into a self-sufficient and powerful democracy in the Middle East," Ossip said.

The State of Israel is floating a $500,000,000 bond issue the proceeds from which are to be used in expanding that nation's industry and agriculture so 600,000 new immigrants can be absorbed within the next few years as productive citizens.

"I am certain," Ossip declared, "that members of the Jewish Community of Cumberland will actively support this historic drive to make Israel economically independent."

Firemen Rescue Girl From Locked Bedroom

Firemen can expect most any kind of call while on duty.

Three-year-old Charlotte Hockenberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hockenberry, 230 West Oldtown Road, locked herself in the front bedroom of the second floor of her parent's home and city firemen were called to the rescue.

South End answered the call at 8:01 p. m. and with the aid of a ladder, entered the room through a window, and released Charlotte.

Jury Convicts Three Youths In Arson Case

Deliberation Ends After 45 Minutes

After deliberating only about 45 minutes, an Allegany County Circuit Court jury yesterday afternoon rang down the curtain on the three-day trial of three Westernport youths by finding all of them guilty of arson in the December 28 fire which destroyed a powder magazine at the Harris Powder Company near Westernport.

George Millenson, foreman of the 12-man jury, announced the verdict in the well-filled court room about 4:45 p. m. yesterday. Convicted were Paul Russell Taylor, 15; Arthur Leon Kerling, 25, and John Francis Humes, 15.

Associate Judge George Henderson, who presided at the trial which began Tuesday morning, deferred sentencing the three youths, pending the outcome of other charges against them. However, Humes, who had been free on bond, was remanded to the County Jail with the other two defendants, who have been confined there since they were first questioned, July 31.

Parents Wept

Although the youths made no immediate display of emotions when the verdict was read to them, they did break down when they left the courtroom. Parents and other relatives of the convicted threesome wept openly in court.

Whether the defendants also will be tried on the other six charges which have been filed against them remained in doubt last night.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, Assistant State's Attorney William H. Geppert and the defense attorneys Edward J. Ryan and Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., are expected to confer with Judge Henderson in his chambers today and a decision on future action may be reached then.

Closing arguments to the jury consumed about three hours yesterday.

Fletcher concluded the argument about 3:45 p. m. Argument had begun after the lunch recess.

"If you believe that the boys' confessions were obtained without coercion or promise of reward, you must return a verdict of guilty." Fletcher stressed in conclusion. "You must serve notice upon other residents of Allegany County that similar crimes in the future will not go unpunished."

"No Iron Curtain"

Fletcher contended that there is no Iron Curtain or Gestapo in Allegany County and said the confessions obtained resulted from an orderly system of law. Defense attorneys had criticized the fact that the statements were obtained from the boys in a room at the Fort Cumberland Hotel and that the youths were not given a chance to see their parents or lawyers.

Before the state's attorney concluded his argument, Attorney Ryan presented his closing argument. He emphasized that statements made by the boys on different days contained a number of discrepancies. He argued there was no sound reason why one should be believed and the other not and contended that all were untrue. The boys signed them because they were afraid, Ryan concluded. Condemning the manner in which the statements were obtained, Ryan said the rights of the public are important and should not be taken lightly.

First to present arguments were Geppert and Whitworth.

Yesterday morning both Humes and Taylor took the witness stand to deny guilt. They contended that they signed statements because they were "scared." Other defense witnesses in the morning session were Mrs. Kathleen Humes, the defendant's mother, and State Police Lt. W. E. O'Hara.

As rebuttal witnesses, Fletcher called seven persons to the stand. These included Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, who had testified for the defense the previous day; Mrs. Humes, H. B. Clark, special agent of the Western Maryland Railway; State Trooper Milton Hart, Westernport Police Chief Burza Hanlin, Harry V. Reeves, Jr., and John J. Cassidy, State Police detective sergeant.

The last witness in the three-day trial was George Robertson, who had rented an apartment in Westernport to Kerling. He was called by the defense attorneys as a surrebuttal witness.

During the trial 20 different witnesses were called to testify, some appearing on the stand two or three times.

Civil Defense Wardens Take Oath Next Week

Organization Needs Necessary Equipment

Wardens in the Civil Defense program of this city will take their oath of office during Civil Defense week September 12 and 19, Arthur B. Gibson, Civil Defense coordinator for this city, announced yesterday.

Civil Defense wardens have been organized here on the zone, precinct and block levels.

The safety of the community, Gibson said, may depend upon the skill of these wardens, who will go into action immediately if the city is hit by any emergency, including an atomic attack.

The warden's chief duties, Gibson continued, will be to coordinate the forces of self-protection of the community and to reduce panic and confusion which might follow any catastrophe.

Volunteers Needed

The wardens, primarily volunteer workers, carry the responsibility of insuring that every person in the community knows what to do both before and after an attack.

Many of the wardens, Gibson explained, have already begun to make studies of their territory so that they may be prepared to furnish information needed for the protection of the city.

Additional volunteers will be needed if the job is to be done satisfactorily, Gibson added.

Contending the complete organization should have at least one worker to every block in the city, Gibson pointed out that the plan has been hindered somewhat by lack of full equipment facilities for training participants in the program.

Training Is Needed

With a knowledge of what to do in case of attack the city wardens could help to save many lives, mainly by getting them outside the attack or emergency area immediately, Gibson stated. But to date the group has been unable to fully train its personnel adequately to aid those injured or ill after the rescue has been carried out. This added training to help the suffering could be of immense value in helping save many more lives, Gibson related.

The local Red Cross chapter is being called upon to provide first aid facilities, food, clothing and shelter for the helpless but their contributions will not be adequate should a full-scale invasion or atomic attack break out, the coordinator concluded.

Local Children Report They Are Happy School Has Resumed

By ALBERT D. DARBY, JR.

What's wrong with the younger generation? Local youngsters are happy that school has started.

Shortly after noon yesterday I questioned a number of boys and girls along North Centre Street and 91.7 per cent said they are happy that school has started again.

Parochial schools in the county began their new terms Wednesday and yesterday was the first day for public schools.

One Dissenter

During about 30 minutes I questioned 12 children, six boys and six girls, and only one of the dozen expressed sadness that another school term has begun. Naturally, this one exception was a boy.

Although 11 said they were happy that school is again in session, their answers were varied. A few stressed that they just liked school, others stated that they had very little to do during the summer months, others had too much work and a few are eager to be in school so they can learn.

In each case, after obtaining the name, age, address and school of the youngster, I asked two questions. The first was "Are you happy that school has started?" Then, I asked why or why not.

Nine At Centre Street

Nine of the 12 youngsters are enrolled at Centre Street School, two others go to Columbia Street School and the other pupil is attending St. Patrick's School. Most of the interviewing was done in the vicinity of Centre Street School.

Corky Schrock, 6-year old Centre Street first grader, who resides at 226 North Mechanic Street, said she was happy to be in school "because." Finally, she added, "because I like it."

Lawrence William Lease, also answered in the affirmative and added that he liked the first day.

"I wanted to see what the third grade is like and I like it too." That was the response of Buddy Galford, 8, of 106 Hanover Street.

Betty Ann Buzzard, 11, 530 North Centre Street, who is in the sixth grade at St. Patrick's School, added her "yes" to the others. "There wasn't anything to do during the summertime," she offered in explanation.

"Yes sir," said Evelyn Marie Shahan, 11, 213 North Mechanic Street, who is enrolled in the sixth grade at Centre Street School. "It teaches us children to learn things and when we get bigger we will have an education and will be able to get a job."

Garland Hiser, 10, Locust Grove, who is in the fifth grade at Centre Street School, was the only dissenter. "I just don't like school. Don't ask me why."

Another first grader, Walter Dayton, 6, who lives at Locust Grove, was happy about starting to school. "I couldn't wait for school," he explained. "I liked my first day. It's real good in school."

Twins Happy

Ten-year old twins from Locust Grove were glad that school has started again because their household chores will be lessened. Donald Wayne McCoy said he liked school because he doesn't have to do the dishes then. His brother, Ronald William McCoy, said that he too likes school because "I don't have to do a lot of work." They are fifth graders.

"I didn't have much to do in the summertime," said Mary Ellen Aldridge, 8, 621 Henderson Avenue, in explaining why she is pleased to be in the fourth grade at Columbia Street School.

Patricia Sweitzer, 101 Pioneer Place, answered with an emphatic "yes sir" when asked if she was happy that school has resumed. "I didn't have much to do during the summer and I was lonely. I just like school. I love to learn."

The last pupil I questioned was Marline Sisk, 9, who lives on Columbia Avenue. She is in the fourth grade at Columbia Street School. I talked with her at the corner of Holland Street and Columbia Avenue. "I like to go to school to learn and pass," was her reason.

APPOINTED—Mrs. M. Louise Beeche, 601 Bedford Street, has been appointed temporary chief clerk in the city engineer's office, City Hall, as of September 4. She is classified as a temporary senior stenographer doing stenographic and clerical work, replacing Miss Inez Shoemaker, who resigned.
